Plasmochin Discovered by Foreign Chemists Used for Malaria.

By the Associated Press.
ELBERFELD, Germany, March 28.—Continued experiments with plasmochin, the new synthetic quinine without the bitter taste, have shown it to be effective against malaria.

Four comparatively unknown chemists, one only 28 years old, developed the complicated compound.

In more than 500 cases of malaria in all parts of the world, plasmochin has proved virtually 100 per cent effective, the institute for Tropical Diseases at Hamburg reports. Plasmochin kills the parasitic bacteria in the blood, which cause the disease within two to seven days; it checks the fever within 24 hours, and eliminated the detrimental effects of quinine, especially in persons suffering from diseases of the heart.

Plasmochin, an alkaloid with chemical composition substantially that of quinine, was produced by Dr. William Roehl, 46, of Berlin; Dr. Werner Schulmann, 35, of Nuremberg; Dr. Fritz Schoenhof, 30, of Speyer, and Dr. August Winkler, 28, of Constance.

Polish Textile Strike Ended.
By the Associated Press.
WARSAW, Poland, March 28.—The strike of Polish textile workers in which more than 150,000 persons were involved, has been settled by agreement between the employers and the employees. The workers will get from 5 to 12 per cent advance instead of the 25 per cent wage increase they demanded.

Asked About Income.
"Are you prepared to state your gross and net income received by your firm during your connection with co-operative, associations," asked Gallagher.

"No," replied Saprio, although he said the accounts had been kept.

Read then filed a motion to subpoena Saprio's records and accounts and the plaintiff accepted service.

Saprio said the records for 1926 and 1927 were in Chicago, but previous accounts were in San Francisco and applied.

TWO DEPUTIES HELD ON CHARGES OF BOOTLEGGERS

Madison County Officers Bound Over After Saloon Keepers Tell of Attempts at Extortion.

MONEY DEMANDED TO AVOID RAIDS

John Kunemann Jr. and C. K. Thompson, the Defendants, Deny They Sought Bribes.

Two Deputy Constables, John Kunemann Jr. and Columbus K. Thompson, today were bound over to the Madison County (Ill.) grand jury, charged with attempting to extort money from bootleggers.

Justice of the Peace Tirkak, after a preliminary hearing in Madison yesterday, set their bonds at $1000 each.

Thompson, who lives at Hartland, and Kunemann, of Granite City, were identified by Nick Tomasevich, Madison saloon keeper, as the men who asserted they "were deputies from Alton." In his case, 1340 State street, on March 21, and demanded money after purchasing whisky and beer. He said the two Deputy Constables were steady customers.

Two other witnesses pointed out Kunemann and Thompson as "the young man and the old man who had tried to shake them down." One witness declared he gave them $10 "around Christmas" in order to avoid a raid. The other testified that when the Constables threatened to raid his saloon, Kunemann, he told them to go ahead and refused a promise of a bribe.

Trap Set for Deputies.
An investigation into the alleged "shake-down" activities of Madison County Constables has been under way for several weeks, under the direction of Deputy Sheriff Robert Tomasevich, who, in conducting raids, encountered bootleggers and others who complained that they had paid protection money. A trap was laid for Kunemann and Thompson took stand and denied the charges. They said they entered "Nick's place" on a search warrant, which was produced yesterday at the hearing. It was cold outside and after drinking whisky and beer, they stood around the stove to get warm before making a raid, Thompson testified.

Kunemann stated that they decided to raid the place when Thompson got "tired of some bootlegger there once." Thompson made complaint to Police Magistrate W. E. Painter, of Hartford, who issued a search warrant to be executed by Kunemann. The latter admitted he never had possession of the warrant, as required by law.

Neither told Patrolman George Miller, Madison policeman who arrested them, that they were holding on a warrant.

Admissions of Deputies.
Both constables freely admitted that they drank at Nick's place, among others "quite often," but did not go into particulars about how many times evidence had to be gathered to become evidence, instead of refreshment.

Nick Tomasevich, the first witness, identified the constables as former customers who one day showed up with evidence and demanded "hash money."

"What for I don't know," said Nick. "I sell a little beer, a little whisky, and they buy it and pay for it. I tell them I got no money. They say, 'get it.' They come back later. They come back and I call police. They stay in place about 10 minutes, and don't say anything. Then Policeman Miller comes and they get arrested." Nick was evidently pleased at this turn of affairs, and he laughed heartily.

Tells of Threatened Raid.
Tony Grzech, who said his business at 1344 State street, differed from Nick's, by being a soft drink establishment, testified that several weeks ago Kunemann and Thompson whom he identified, threatened to "raid his joint" unless he produced "hash money."

He told them to go ahead and raid. They left, Grzech said, after telling him that after he made the payment, he could run a "wide open place."

Andrew Jurich, 1401 Madison street, testified that "around Christmas" a young man and an old man, whom he identified as the constables, came to his saloon, ordered whisky and put it in a box. They then "propositioned" him, he declared, and the upshot of the affair was that Jurich paid two $20 to call off the "raid."

Assistant State's Attorney J. C. Carr pointed out that one "copy" of the search warrant carried by Thompson for the Tomasevich saloon called for a search of one place and the other "copy" described different premises. An admission had been made in the one on is expected to be made early next week. It was said today at the Federal building.

deeper-dug cancer to exercise its beneficent influence.

"Not only does the X-ray cure some cancer, but, used in improper amounts, causes cancer. Thus it furnishes an important clue to the cause of cancer. Our new institute will be completely equipped to make probable further progress in our knowledge of this great diagnostic and therapeutic agency. Radiology is one of the branches of medicine that offers a great field for further discovery."

The $1,000,000 gift for the work of Dr. Graham and his associates is regarded as a tribute to Dr. Graham's important recent contributions to the technique of surgery of the chest, which has developed almost totally since the World War. Soldiers, in great numbers, suffered pleural abscesses as an aftermath of influenza.

This caused the creation by the War Department of a commission on emphysema, of which Dr. Graham was a member. That commission developed the operation for pleural abscesses which reduced the percentage of fatalities from 75 per cent to less than 10 per cent and gave surgeons the courage for the first time to operate upon the chest.

New Technique Developed.
From the emphysema operation, Dr. Graham developed the technique of operation for pleural abscesses with it, modification of the technique of X-ray photography making lung abscess more clearly discernible. With Dr. Duff Allen, Dr. Graham originated the radioscopic operation upon the heart for the relief of valvular heart disease.

The addition of the Mallinckrodt Radiological Institute will be the second important addition this spring to the notable group of hospitals and research institutions centering about the Washington University School of Medicine. The new maternity hospital of the group, which will have 108 beds, will be opened on June 1. The university has found now in excess of $1,000,000 from the McMillan estate for an ear, eye, nose and throat hospital, which will be added to the group as soon as the fund becomes sufficient to erect a building and leave an endowment sufficient to operate it—likely within the next two or three years or sooner if further gifts are obtained.

KILLED BY CAR OF SAND

The Livingston, 60 years old, a carpenter, of 6211 West Park avenue, was killed at 9 a. m. today when a dump car loaded with sand, on a runway near the River des Peres bridge, 6121 Manchester avenue, fell on him, crushing his skull.

Livingston was employed by the Callahan Construction Co. and was working on wooden forms for concrete near the dump-car runway, when the car overturned.

Earl Carroll Ordered to Prison.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 29.—Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, today was ordered to surrender Monday to begin the sentence of a year and a day in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., imposed as a result of his famous "bath tub" party. Carroll's transfer to Atlanta is expected to be made early next week. It was said today at the Federal building.

ST. LOUIS' CHECK LAST FOR CARNEGIE LIBRARY

Carpenter Branch Gets Final Gift From the $65,000,000 Building Fund.

The last Carnegie Library has been built. The huge fund, amounting at one time to approximately $65,000,000, and which went to build libraries all over the world, has been exhausted. The final check, which closed the library building fund, was made over to the new Carpenter Branch of the St. Louis Public Library, at Grand boulevard and Utah place. It amounted to $12,556.16, the final fraction of the million dollars Andrew Carnegie gave to St. Louis to build free libraries.

The Carnegie Foundation, which administers the funds left by the picturesque steel magnate for library purposes, announced several years ago that new funds would be given to communities for the building of libraries. Since that announcement, however, large amounts have been paid over to communities that had not received the full quota destined for them by Carnegie.

His death, thus, has ended the Carnegie library fund. It has been given to communities for the building of libraries. Since that announcement, however, large amounts have been paid over to communities that had not received the full quota destined for them by Carnegie.

KIRK PENS 'LAST OF NINTH' VERSES JUST BEFORE DEATH

Columnist Catches Farewell Contribution in Language of the Baseball Diamond.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Ill., March 29.—A poem in which he pictured "the last of the ninth for me," was written by William F. Kirk, well-known columnist, just before he died last week.

The verses were made public by David Kirk, a brother, after the writer's funeral here yesterday. The poem, titled "The Ninth Inning" and couched in the terms of the baseball diamond, follows:

"The doctor knows what his trained eyes see
And he says it's the last of the ninth for me.
One more swing while the clouds loom dark.
And then I must leave this noisy park."

"Twas a glorious game from the opening bell—
Good plays, bad plays and thrills pell mell.
The speed of it burned my years away.
But I thank Great God that he let me play."

City offices and business houses closed during the funeral.

SNYDER-GRAY LOVE FEUD OF SIX YEARS DISCOVERED
Police Find Evidence That Art Editor and Slayed Fought Over Affections of Wife.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 29.—A six-year feud between Albert Snyder, murdered magazine art editor, and Henry Judd Gray, his accused slayer, over the affections of the former's wife, is being investigated by police today.

Contrary to statements by Gray and Mrs. Ruth Snyder, also under indictment, for her husband's murder, that Gray and Snyder never had met, Judge Nathan Leiberman last night confirmed reports that Snyder had consulted him several years ago on divorce plans. Judge Leiberman also was quoted regarding the fight between Snyder and Gray which was said to have occurred in the Snyder home June 14, 1924, when Snyder surprised Gray and his wife together.

The husband is said to have admitted he had had a tough fight despite the small stature of Gray, his erstwhile antagonist. "I beat him within an inch of his life," Snyder is said to have described the battle, "and I knocked him out."

A reconciliation between Snyder and his wife was effected, and they continued to live together with their small daughter, Lorraine, after Snyder's arrest.

COURT OF APPEALS AFFIRMS FINDING AGAINST RHINELANDER Sustains Decision Refusing Annulment of His Marriage to Part Negro Wife.

By the Associated Press.
March 29.—The Court of Appeals affirmed today the decision of the lower courts denying the annulment action brought by Leonard Kip Rhinelander against his quadroon wife, Alice Rhinelander.

The case was brought before the Court of Appeals on an appeal by Rhinelander from the decision of the Appellate division, which had sustained Supreme Court Justice Morschauser, before whom the original annulment action was tried.

Rhinelanders, a member of a wealthy and socially prominent New York family, married Alice Jones, of Negro parentage, at New Rochelle, Oct. 14, 1924.

Rhinelanders alleged that his wife misrepresented herself to be white. The Court held, however, that Rhinelander had had every opportunity to know she was of Negro blood.

101 VOLUNTEER TO GIVE BLOOD
The Blood Transfusion Committee of the Community Council reports it has 101 volunteers, willing to give blood for use in transfusion operations. There have been 57 transfusions since the committee began its work.

ROBBED OF AUTO AND $20 IN FRONT OF HOME

Flint Garrison, Wife and Sister Held Up by Three Young Men.

As Flint Garrison, president of the Garden Theater and the Garrison-Wagner Printing Co., accompanied by his wife and his sister, Miss Mora Garrison, drove up to the Garrison residence, 5835 Bartlett avenue, at 9:40 o'clock last night, another car was stopped alongside and three young men got out.

Displaying revolvers, the men ejected Garrison, Mrs. Garrison and Miss Garrison from their car, a Buick brougham, and robbed Garrison of a purse containing $20. Mrs. Garrison, fearing she was about to be robbed, hid a diamond ring in her mouth. Neither she nor Miss Garrison was molested.

Two of the robbers then drove off in Garrison's car, the third robber following in the other car, which, according to the license plate, was the one stolen from Louis C. Johnson, 5148 Washington boulevard, in a holdup Saturday night.

'KHIRON THE MYSTIC' DIES WITH DIVORCE CASE PENDING
Lee V. Johnson, 60, Pioneer Clairvoyant of St. Louis and Wellston, Pneumonia Victim.

Lee V. Johnson, 60 years old, for many years known professionally as "Khiron, the Mystic," and credited with being one of the most accomplished fakirs in Wellston's clairvoyant colony, died yesterday at his home, 6223A Easton avenue, following four days' illness of pneumonia.

He had been hopeful of recovery and reconciliation with his 24-year-old wife, whose suit for divorce had been taken under advisement by Circuit Judge Rutledge, Dr. C. A. Poe, who attended him, said worry over their estrangement contributed to Johnson's collapse.

Khiron was reputed to be wealthy from his earnings as a "seer," his wife testifying at the divorce trial, March 16, that he collected "$150, some days" from gullible persons who sought his aid.

He was one of the pioneer clairvoyants in St. Louis, once operating a place on Olive street from which he was often haled to police court. "The Great Khiron, come forward!" court bailiffs used to shout, and the fortune teller, short and heavy set, with large bearded head, would step up to pay his fines. No funeral arrangements have been made pending arrival of a daughter by a former marriage from Jerseyville, Ill.

Henry Ford's Clothing Made in His Own Shop

Fully Equipped One-Customer Plant at Rouge River Factory—Suits of Ancient Style Cut to His Measure.

By L. F. PARTON.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
Copyright 1927.

DETROIT, March 29.—At Edison's recent birthday party, Henry Ford was the only man to change his clothes for the afternoon festivities. The world wondered vaguely then at Ford's emergence from the old ready made suit and derby hat.

Henry Ford has become perhaps the most fastidious dresser in America, and so far as current history records, he is the only man in the world who has his own tailor shop in his place of business, and who keeps his own private cutter busy making his suits. Set down amid the huge Rouge River plant, this tailor shop equipped with no other one customer shop in the world was ever equipped.

On the way to the tailor shop, this writer encountered the bath tub in which Marat sat when Charlotte Corday cut his throat; but that is another story.

There is a huge cutting table, cut out of the white pine. There is a floor of maple, polished to mirror-like sheen. There are beautiful presses of highly polished walnut.

Ranged on long tables are bolts of cloth, ready for Ford's selection when he wants a new suit. They include Yorkshire cheviot, Donegal tweeds, Melton, old English cheviot, Irish tweeds, Harr's tweeds and many others.

Old Fashioned Clothing.
The shiny new walnut presses disclose Ford's own wardrobe of early American clothes, cut to his measure. Among them are richly embroidered and brocade waistcoats, quaint striped trousers with straps going under the foot, several low-tailed coats with padded shoulders—all the splendid trappings of yesterday.

There are possibly one million separate pieces in Ford's loosely thrown together collection. They are still uncatalogued and unsorted. Alongside some priceless old furniture is a heap of broken crockery and rusty nails which Ford excavated from the back yard of his old home. There are a few haphazard objects of Indian handicraft, thrown together on a table.

"Somebody gave those to Ford," said the official who was leading the way through the warehouse. He doesn't think much of them, because the Indians never did anything. This collection is what Henry Ford means by history—what people did, how they lived, how they met life."

HEAD OF NEW YORK POLICE, G. V. McLAUGHLIN, RESIGNS
He Is to Become First Vice President of the Postal Telegraph Co.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 29.—Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin has resigned. It was announced today.

He is to become executive vice president of the Postal Telegraph Co. May 1.

Recently the commissioner has been at odds with certain district leaders of Tammany Hall over police raids on Democratic social clubs in Brooklyn and elsewhere, where it was alleged evidence of professional gambling had been uncovered.

McLaughlin, known as a strict disciplinarian and enjoyed the confidence of the rank and file of the city's 16,000 bluecoats. He recently went before the State Legislature at Albany and urged the enactment of bills seeking to place a stronger curb on criminal activities.

ENDS LIFE BY SHOOTING AT GRAVE OF BROTHER

W. S. Morrison, 54, Had Told Undertaker He Would Return in Different Condition.

"I'll be back in a little while, but not in the same condition," Walter S. Morrison, former general superintendent of Curtis Manufacturing Co., remarked yesterday as he left an undertaking establishment at 5866 Easton avenue, where he had been a visitor.

Less than an hour later caretakers at Valhalla Cemetery, on the St. Charles road, heard a shot and found Morrison dead on the grave of his brother with a bullet wound in his head. In his pocket was a note written on the stationery of the undertaking establishment and addressed to his son, Walter Jr.

Morrison, who was 54 years old, left the employ of the Curtis company about five years ago. He worked in the steam-heating business for a while after that, but lately had not been employed. He lived at 5842A Easton avenue. Two sons and two daughters survive. Besides Walter Morrison Jr., they are Mrs. William Burch, Mrs. Price Rollin and Theodore R. Morrison. He was divorced some years ago.

Morrison was a member of several Masonic orders. The note he left yesterday was not read at the inquest today. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at the Easton avenue undertaking establishment, with interment in the Valhalla Cemetery lot where he ended his life.

ILLINOIS COAL OPERATORS

WILL CLOSE ALL BIG MINES

President Miller Says They Will Not Reopen Until Men Accept General Terms.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Rice Miller, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association, announced today that every large coal mine in Illinois would be closed at midnight Thursday with orders not to open until 72,500 union miners accepted the terms of the operators. By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 29.—The United Mine Workers have authorized separate wage agreements between mining companies in the central competitive field, and their unionized employees after March 31, when the present contract expires, in an effort to avert a general suspension in the bituminous coal industry April 1.

This policy was decided upon yesterday at a meeting of the Policy Committee of the mine workers. Two resolutions adopted provided that districts in the central field—Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania—may enter into district wage agreements based upon existing agreements, and that these districts may permit any operator to operate after March 31 on a temporary extension of the present contract pending negotiation of a basic scale for the whole field. However, it is believed a walkout in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio is probable in view of the determined stands taken by operators of those states for a wage scale which would enable them to compete more favorably with nonunion mines in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

COUNTESS SHOT HER ADMIRER IN THEIR PARTING EMBRACE

Bought Pistol Hour Before Shooting, Police Learn—Both Are Slightly Improved.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill., and Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, March 29.—It was only an hour before the shot Raymond de Trafford on a coast-bound train Saturday afternoon that Countess Alize de Janze purchased the heavy hunting pistol she used to shoot him and herself, police have learned. Both she and De Trafford still were in danger of death today, although slightly improved. They are in the same hospital.

"That's my secret, I cannot answer," the Countess girl replied when magistrates asked her why she shot. She said the act was not premeditated but on impulse.

Medical evidence indicates she must have shot De Trafford with the pistol in her right hand, while her left arm was around his neck in bidding him farewell. He was leaving her to go back to his family in England, after he had been with her constantly several months.

Beauty Fades When You Become a CO-LONIC

CO-LONICS often doctor for sallow skins, wrinkles, pimples—or even biliousness, headaches, indigestion, rheumatism, etc.—without knowing they are really CO-LONICS. Modern living conditions mean almost universal constipation. The colon becomes infested with millions of bacteria. Intestinal toxins are absorbed into the blood stream, and lodge in various organs and parts of the body. Any one of a hundred minor or serious disorders may result. You can't be a CO-LONIC and remain youthful. See for yourself what it means to have a thoroughly cleansed colon. Get the safe dependable CO-LONIC treatment—Nature's Remedy (NR tablets) entirely vegetable and non-habit forming. It works without the usual griping and nauseating effects of cathartics and physics. $650,000 MORE FOR PRISON BOARD THAN IN 1925

Surplus Fund Which Was Wiped Out in Biennial Period Restored and Deficit Made Good.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 29.—Extravagance in the management of the State penitentiary severely condemned by the Senate investigating committee, whose report was republished by the Senate in the confirmation of the five commissioners under fire, is being amply provided for in the appropriation bills now nearing completion in the Legislature.

The group of Senators which Thursday forced through the confirmation, yesterday, under the leadership of Senator Donnelly of Laclede County, put through amendments to guarantee to the commissioners, in addition to the appropriations of two years ago, an amount nearly $50,000 more than the surplus fund which they exhausted in 1925 and 1926, and the amount of the deficit that was incurred.

In other words, the Commissioners will be authorized to spend during 1927 and 1928 a larger amount than they spent in the last biennial period, which the investigating committee characterized as an era of "diagonal extravagance."

It was in an appropriation from the general revenue of the State for support of the prison that the Senate gave the authorization for the drain on the general fund, the House having previously provided $500,000 more than ever before was granted from the State for support of the prison for its support.

Two years ago the Legislature appropriated $2,000,000 from the earnings for the upkeep of the prison. The House bill approved by the Senate, this year increased this to $2,500,000, the increase being approximately $100,000 more than the amount shown in the investigation to have been taken from the surplus fund of the prison industries in 1926.

In addition to this appropriation for support, each Legislature also makes an appropriation from the general revenues. This has been a sort of petty cash fund to meet emergencies, it being intended for payments of salaries each month in case the earnings fund did not contain a sufficient amount to meet all demands on it. In 1923 this appropriation amounted to $150,000 and in 1925 it was $250,000. It and the $2,000,000 appropriation from earnings were exhausted in the last biennial period, and, in addition to draining the surplus, a deficit of $160,000 was incurred.

The House sought to appropriate $360,000 for this support fund from the general revenues, and the Senate Committee on Appropriations cut that to $310,000. The Tax Commission in its budget recommended $250,000.

Amendment by Donnelly. When the item came up for consideration yesterday Senator Donnelly, who was one of the bolters from the Democratic caucus on the confirmation of the Commissioners, offered an amendment fixing the amount at $400,000. To hold the total penitentiary appropriation reasonably close to the amount recommended by the Senate Committee, Donnelly in his amendment struck out an appropriation of $50,000 for new boilers, which the prison management has said were urgently needed, and eliminated several other items so that the total appropriation made the total prison appropriation from the general revenues $502,000 or only $12,000 more than the Senate committee recommended.

The effect of the amendment is that the prison can go on trying to use its old boilers, but there will be greatly increased allowances for salaries.

The Republican Senators with the group of Democrats who bolted the caucus and three others passed the Donnelly amendment.

The marked increase in salaries since the present management, headed by Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, director of Penal Institutions, came into power, was the subject of censure by the investigating committee. It reported that the salary account had been increased one-half by the Enloe management, going from $20,000 to $30,000 a month within two years.

Total Increase $650,000. As the appropriation bills now stand, and there is no reason to believe they will be altered, the prison board, will be authorized by this Legislature to spend $650,000 more in two years than the last Legislature authorized it to spend. However, the board spent about that without authorization, and was supported in its acts by the Senate. So, it may be concluded that this is but another demonstration of politics in the Missouri Legislature.

Clean-BE-Tween for a month!

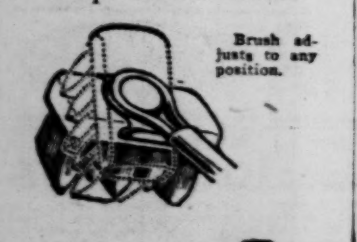

Then try to go back to ordinary tooth brushing, and see how impossible it is to get ALL teeth ALL clean by the old method!

"The Clean-BE-Tween is better than any 'toothbrush.' It adjusts to any position; reaches every tooth; cleans easily the hardest-to-get-at places; removes all food and foreign matter from between the teeth; and makes the mouth 'surgically clean'—so that infection and decay are practically impossible.

Once you use a Clean-BE-Tween instead of a "toothbrush," your teeth look, feel and are cleaner. You can't help knowing that they were never so clean before! And you find it quite impossible to go back again for very long to the ineffective, old-style toothbrush which used to satisfy you.

Dentists recommend the Clean-BE-Tween. It will pay you to make a point of going to your druggist or department store today and asking to see a Clean-BE-Tween!

ORRICK'S NAME SENT TO SENATE AGAIN BY BAKER

left to the Senators representing the districts involved.

KIEL AND OTHERS IN NEW PROTEST

Another vigorous protest of St.
Louis business and professional men against the action of the State Senate in rejecting the nomination of Allen C. Orrick as member of the Police Board was forwarded to Jefferson City last night. The name of former Mayor Kiel, chairman of the Republican State Committee in last fall's campaign, was conspicuous among the signers of the protest telegram.

Mayor Miller, in reply to a question from a Post-Dispatch reporter today, as to his view of the public demand for Allen Orrick's reappointment to the Police Board, said:

"Mr. Orrick is an honest, energetic man, and has been holding his position at a great personal sacrifice. The Police Department is being managed as well as it ever was managed."

Miller was President of the Police Board under the first part of Gov. Hyde's administration, and is now an ex-officio member of the Police Board.

Quay A. Thompson, former president of the St. Louis Bar Association, has written to the Governor, saying that "incontestable proof" of Orrick's faithfulness and efficiency can be found in the report of the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice. "Surely," he added, "it is not conducive to good government to disapprove self-sacrifice, faithfulness and efficiency in office."

Charles M. Hay and Joseph T.
Davis, Democratic attorneys, have forwarded indorsements of Orrick.
The State grand jury, of which Paul H. Conrad is foreman, today sent the following telegram, signed by all of its members, to
Gov. Baker:

We, the members of the present grand jury of the City of St.
Louis, deplore the rejection of Allen C. Orrick as Police Commissioner. We urge you to reappoint Orrick and to show this telegram to all Senators who voted against him, irrespective of party.

The 67 signers of the principal message sent did not include any of the 20 in the first protesting group, headed by Edward B. Pryor, president of the State National Bank, which sent a similar message to Gov. Baker Friday.

Mallinckrodt Heads List.
Edward Mallinckrodt, chairman of the board of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Co., headed the list of signers. The message read:

We believe the maintenance of proper police facilities is a civic matter entirely divorced from the sphere of politics. We, therefore, urge the confirmation of Allen C. Orrick as president of the Board of Police Commissioners of the City of St. Louis, our sole interest being to retain as courageous and impartial a leader as Col. Orrick has through his record, demonstrated himself to be. We are only a few of those who know how to feel as strongly as we do in wishing Col. Orrick's appointment to be confirmed.

We regret that our indorsement of Col. Orrick was not in your possession before last Thursday, as the only reason for our failure to take all action in our power to assure his confirmation was our mistake in supposing that his appointment would be confirmed as a matter of course, since the Police Department of St. Louis has never enjoyed a more efficient management than under Col. Orrick's administration. If there is any particular information we can give you, we stand ready to supply it.

Ministers Sign Protest.
A ministerial group signing the protest included the Rev. Dr. A. H.
Armstrong, secretary of the Church Federation; the Rev. Dr. M. Ashby Jones, Second Baptist Church; the Rev. Dr. Edmund Duckworth, Episcopal Church of the Redeemer; the Rev. Dr. John Bunting,

WANTS TRANSIT BILL PASSED ON ANY TERMS

C. E. Smith Says Drafting of Plan Would Occupy Two Years—Wimer Objects.

C. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city, said today he favored the passage of the rapid transit enabling act in the State Legislature with or without the amendments tacked on by a Senate committee.

The amendments destroy the assessment plan of financing subways by limiting to 40 per cent the proportion of the cost assessable against benefited property. The city had desired the power to assess 75 per cent of the cost against property, thus relieving car riders of the greater part of the burden.

The act still carries unimpaired the power of the Board of Aldermen to appoint a Rapid Transit Commission and provide it with funds to prepare detailed rapid transit plan. Smith said that it would require probably two years for a commission to prepare a plan and at that time the city again could go to the Legislature and seek to have the 75 per cent assessment limit restored.

Chairman Wimer of the special committee on rapid transit of the Board of Aldermen said he was opposed to the appointment of a commission under the act as amended.

Personal files by Col. Perkins. One of the signers, General Manager Perkins of the United Railways Co., sent a personal message to the Governor, saying, "My observations, for which I have extensive opportunity, and the report of my superintendents and supervisors, covering all parts of the city, show such remarkable advance in discipline, efficiency and general work of the Police Department, and such improvement in public safety during the administration of Col. Orrick, that I believe any possible means should be taken to retain Col. Orrick."

Other individual senders of messages to the Governor were W. J. See, metropolitan director of the Y. M. C. A.; John N. Deane of the Southern Surety Co.; the Rev. James F. LeClerc, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian Church; J. M. Blagney, attorney; Gus O. Nations, former Federal prohibition group chief here, and Henry Henkey of 3212 St. Vincent avenue. The Associated Retailers of St. Louis, in a telegram signed by T. W. Garland and K. F. Niemoeller, president and secretary, said:

"The Associated Retailers of the city, whose combined sales are in excess of $100,000,000 annually, most respectfully request the reconsideration of the appointment of Col. Allen C. Orrick as a member of the Police Board. We have only the highest approval of his conduct of the Police Department and it is most important for the welfare of the citizens of the city that high class officials be retained in the police service."

Wire of Curlee Clothing Co. The Curlee Clothing Co. wired to the Governor, "We hope you will be successful in procuring a reconsideration of the Senate action in the matter of the confirmation of Col. Orrick."

Nelson R. Darragh, president of the Raw Fur and Wool Association, in a telegram signed by Paul Lungren, president, says that "Col. Orrick has always stood for the best interests of the citizens of St. Louis and the Police Department." Other messages from business groups were sent, as was told yesterday.

Messages were sent by the Associated Industries to the St. Louis Senators. J. Clarence Taussig and Robert C. Day, active Republicans, also sent a wire to the Senators.

Much depends on the way the hair is washed! To handle it easily and do it up attractively, the most important thing is that soft, abundant fluffiness which a canthrox shampoo always gives.

This shampoo can easily be made at home by dissolving one teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes liquid sufficient to cover all the hair instead of the top of the head. When this soft, fragrant lather is rubbed on, it instantly dissolves all dirt and excess oil, leaving scalp and hair absolutely clean.

Canthrox rinses out easily, dries quickly and leaves the hair bright, fluffy and appearing more abundant than it really is. That "bracing tingle" it gives the scalp means that the hair roots are stimulated to healthy action. It is economical, costing only about 2 cents a shampoo. Just get a package of canthrox from any good drug store.

OBJECTIONS TO PUBLIC DINNER TO BORAH

Business Men of Utica, N. Y., Say Idaho Senator Has Been Obstructive.

By the Associated Press.
UTICA, N. Y., March 29.—A group of local business men, including prominent Republicans, has protested formally to the local committee in charge of a proposed dinner in honor of United States Senator Borah of Idaho scheduled for tonight.

Bradford H. Divine, spokesman for the group, declared it should be understood the invitation was of a personal nature rather than political. "The reason that the group of men for whom I am speaking," continued Divine, "do not believe the Senator from Idaho is entitled to a public dinner as an honor in recognition of his attitude in Washington is because, if the published reports of his record are correct, he has been obstructive to the policies so ably advocated by President Coolidge and his supporters in both houses of Congress. For Republicans to honor Senator Borah for his obstructive policies would be nothing more or less than a direct slap in the face for President Coolidge."

William Ross Lee, president of the Utica Republican Club, in commenting on the situation, said: "It is true that the Republican Club as a body did not formally take action. But for five years past the Lincoln Dinner Committee has extended an invitation to Senator Borah to attend and deliver an address. This year is no exception. He was again invited and expressed his desire to accept. Later he was compelled by duties in Washington to decline, but agreed to come at a subsequent date in March."

Borah Answers Questions on Policy at Informal Symposium.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, and New York business men, financiers and editors had a symposium on international affairs in a small room back of a basement book shop last night. Borah sat smoking with his back to the fireplace and answered questions on the Chinese and Nicaraguan situations and other such topics. The understanding was that anything said was not to be published.

The Rev. John Haynes Holmer, Oswald Garrison Villard of the Nation; Bernard M. Baruch, Herbert B. Swope, executive editor of the New York World; Thomas W. Lamont, E. R. A. Seligman, Everett Dean Martin, Samuel A. Lewisohn, Federal Judge Hand and Charles A. Beard, historian, were among those present.

Charlie Chaplin Invited to Russia.

MOSCOW, March 29.—Aroused by Charlie Chaplin's matrimonial troubles and some of the reaction to them in the United States, the State movie trust has officially invited the comedian to come to Russia, assuring him a hearty welcome. The trust says it considers him "a victim of the pious hypocrisy of American public opinion."

Time-Payment Opponents
Win in Bankers' Debate

The modern system of time-payment buying—one-third down and the balance in 12 monthly installments—which has occupied the minds of bankers and economists since the World War and which is the means of selling six billion dollars worth of manufactured products a year, was the subject of a debate by six young men from St. Louis and Nashville, Tenn., banking houses last night at a dinner of the American Institute of Banking at the City Club.

So many convincing arguments were submitted by both sides that the judges, three older and more experienced bankers, split on the decision. They voted two to one for the St. Louis team, which spoke on the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, That the modern development of installment selling is more to the detriment than to the benefit of the public."

The affirmative side held that installment selling is costly, dangerous and useless, the result of excessive competition among manufacturers in a time of depression, the promoter of ultimate saturation and another depression; that it kills the thrift instinct in the poorer classes, causing them to mortgage their future income to acquire luxuries, when otherwise they would save their money for necessities.

The negative contentions. The negative side argued that installment buying provided a better form of credit than the old "open account"; that it increased production and hence reduced the consumer's cost; that it increased employment and provided higher wages; that it prevented business depression, and permitted many to have pleasures of life which they could not otherwise enjoy.

The affirmative began by declaring that installment selling was born of the depression of 1926 and 1927 and it was created by manufacturers to stimulate an artificial demand, until in 1926 six billion dollars of forty billion dollars worth of retail sales were moved on the installment plan. They argued that the result was that installment paper was liquidated at the banks, through finance companies, and as a result a large per cent of the banks' assets are "frozen," that is, cannot be liquidated easily. Manufacturers are discounting future business in a fury of unadvised competition, it was argued.

The negative replied that installment buying is economically sound, a better form of credit for both buyer and seller. For the buyer, it raises his standard of living, causes him to adopt the budget system, encourages him to buy a home, the comforts of life, books and make investments. The seller avoids spasmodic business depressions and seasonal slumps and can depend upon steady payments throughout the year. The only substitute for installment selling is the open charge account, which economists agree is uncertain and a cause of much commercial difficulty.

Lower Credit Standards. The affirmative responded with the assertion that installment buying lowers the credit standards. Banks made loans to finance companies on "frozen" paper, instead of financing manufacturers engaged in productive occupations. A nation is built on its credit, and installment credit is notoriously weak. Though half the installment sales were for automobiles, Henry Ford was quoted as saying: "Installment sales have gone too far."

The negative argued from the manufacturer's point of view. Installment selling tends to level the production curve, to insure year-round activity. The automobile business today could not have been built up on a cash basis. The worker has higher wages, steady employment and the per capita income has increased from $579 to $770 a year in five years. Figures were quoted to show that savings, life insurance and per capita wealth has increased faster than installment selling.

The affirmative turned to income groups, pointing out that the poorer families pay out 40 per cent of their income in installments, middle class families 25 per cent. The class that can least afford it pays the tremendous cost of installment buying, purchasing sometimes at 35 per cent higher than the cash price. Installment buying is too dangerous for any but the wealthy. The man who has difficulty making ends meet on a cash basis has no business buying on installments.

Destructive of Happiness. Such buying is destructive of happiness and the first cause of marital disagreements. Things have to be paid for in the end, and the poor man, tempted by an automobile, may deprive himself of clothing, food, a much-needed vacation, or his children's education. The system diverts purchasing power from necessities to luxuries, and lowers, rather than increases, the living standards. It is a social parasite.

The negative: Six billion dollars in installment sales, out of 40,000,000,000, is not dangerous, but is a stimulant, rather than a detriment to business. The installment plan benefits the entire public—manufacturer, laborer, capitalist, seller and buyer. Liberty Bonds were

Tinting Tips

(Copyright 1927)

Here's the secret of giving lingerie, stockings, etc., the most gorgeous tints. All tints are really colors. So use real dyes. Get an envelope of the actual dye powder at any drug store, for fifteen cents. Do your own tinting, which saves money and gives you the exact shade you want.

Diamond Dyes do perfectly beautiful tinting—in cold water. A dip, and it's done. And true dyes don't streak! Dye-tinting doesn't look weak, however delicate a tone you use; nor does it wash out unevenly. When you want the tint to be permanent, just use boiling water instead of cold!

Regular dyeing of all dress materials, drapes, etc., just as easy. Ask druggist for color cards and suggestions. Or, a wealth of ideas in full colors, in new book Color Craft free and postpaid; write DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N30, Burlington, Vermont.

sold on the installment plan. Before prohibition, more than a billion dollars a year went from the pockets of the poorer classes into the barkeepers' tills. This money now is spent for comforts of life. Automobiles would cost $300 more a car if sold for cash only.

The affirmative: Prohibition explains the large increase in savings accounts and has nothing to do with installment buying. The poorer classes are the ones who are caught by time-payment plans, while the wealthy alone can use the open charge account. There can be no comparison. The people with the savings accounts are not the ones who buy on installments. The St. Louis debating team consisted of George W. Culler, Jules Schneider and Sanford C. Wise; the Nashville team, E. E. Matheny, John Orr and R. Herman Wright. The judges were W. R. Morehouse of Los Angeles, president of the Savings Bank Division of the American Bankers' Association, and W. Espey Albright, deputy manager of the American Bankers' Association, New York, here for the Midwest Savings Conference which opens today, and Byron W. Moser of the Security National Bank, St. Louis.

PITCHER STABBED IN FIGHT OVER BALL

Owner of Garden Where Ball Fell Wanted to Use It as Court Evidence.

By the Associated Press.
GREENVILLE, S. C., March 29. Clarence Allen of Anderson, S. C., a recruit pitcher for the Jersey City club of the International League, is at a local hospital today, suffering from a number of knife wounds, and J. R. Peden, 45, and his son, Boyd, 18, are held without bond in the county jail, as a result of a fight between the three men just before the exhibition game between the Greenville Spinners and the Jersey team at Graham field yesterday.

The encounter occurred when Allen tagged up a long hit ball that was slugged over a board fence into the Peden garden. The player jumped the fence and ran to recover the ball. He picked it up and started to throw it back into play when young Peden, spectators said, came running up and demanded the ball, as Allen drew back apparently to throw the ball into the park, the fight started.

At this juncture the elder Peden ran up and the three men milled around until other players came to Allen's rescue. The Peden ran to their house nearby and Allen was helped back into the field and then put in a car and carried to a hospital.

Physicians said he had sustained one deep puncture on the left lung by a knife blade and also had deep cuts about the neck, arms and abdomen.

Ballplayers and fans from the park swarmed into the Peden property and were staging a demonstration when a squad of police came up and took the Peden to jail. Both sustained minor cuts and bruises during the encounter. Police said they found a knife on each man.

The elder Peden said that he had made repeated efforts to prevent players from coming on his property to recover batted balls and that the fight was the logical outcome as he saw it.

Since the construction of Graham Field three years ago, Peden, whose home adjoins the property, has complained of balls falling on his house and into his garden. Last September he filed suit for $5000 damages against Furman University, owners of the ball park, and also asked for a permanent restraining order to prevent the park from being used as an athletic ground.

The elder Peden told officers that he and the boy were especially anxious to secure the ball yesterday, as it was to be used with others and one football, similarly obtained, as evidence when the civil suit is heard.

Thompson's Chocolate Malted Milk at home! HOT or COLD

Creamy and Delicious Because It's "Double Malted"

DELICIOUS cold! But Hot—the full rich, creamy flavor of "DOUBLE MALTED" Malted Milk is at its best.

Stir the powder in warm milk. It dissolves instantly without lumping. Children make it for themselves—and love it.

Thompson's is made with the chocolate right in it and sweetened as you would get it at the soda fountain—ready to be made at home.

There is a vast difference in the flavor of malted milks. Only Thompson's has the "DOUBLE MALTED" flavor.

To Mothers and Teachers

Thompson's changes "hot milk" into a delicious hot chocolate malted milk.

Children love milk prepared this way—and it is the best food in the world for growing bodies and minds. Thompson's improves plain milk. It makes it more easily digestible. It increases the caloric value. Adds vitamins, and the active enzyme, malt tonic properties, that help digest other foods.

Dr. Bundesen, Chicago Health Commissioner, says of Malted Milk: "... Many mothers have come to recognize the convenience of keeping a supply in readiness to mix a drink for the growing girl or boy—a drink that carries a punch without a sting."

What "Double Malted" Means
A new process. "DOUBLE MALTED" Malted Milk dissolves instantly; is assimilated by the body immediately.

Thompson's process makes the proteins soluble. THOMPSON'S CONTAINS NO INSOLUBLE FIBROUS MATERIAL. Thompson's is "all nourishment" and instantly available. "Sets light" on the stomach. If taken hot just before retiring, it induces restful sleep.

Processed in vacuum, under low temperature, the valuable vitamins of grain and whole milk—and malt tonic properties—are preserved. A safe, healthful food, for old and young, overweight and underweight.

Thompson's Sweet Chocolate Flavored "DOUBLE MALTED" Malted Milk is made from whole wheat, whole barley malt, full cream milk and high grade, sweetened, Dutch-processed cocoa. There can be none better.

value. Adds vitamins, and the active enzyme, malt tonic properties, that help digest other foods.

Dr. Bundesen, Chicago Health Commissioner, says of Malted Milk: "... Many mothers have come to recognize the convenience of keeping a supply in readiness to mix a drink for the growing girl or boy—a drink that carries a punch without a sting."

What "Double Malted" Means
A new process, "DOUBLE MALTED" Malted Milk dissolves instantly; is assimilated by the body immediately.

Thompson's process makes the proteins soluble. THOMPSON'S CONTAINS NO INSOLUBLE FIBROUS MATERIAL. Thompson's is "all nourishment" and instantly available. "Sets light" on the stomach. If taken hot just before retiring, it induces restful sleep.

Processed in vacuum, under low temperature, the valuable vitamins of grain and whole milk—and malt tonic properties—are preserved. A safe, healthful food, for old and young, overweight and underweight.

Thompson's Sweet Chocolate Flavored "DOUBLE MALTED" Malted Milk is made from whole wheat, whole barley malt, full cream milk and high grade, sweetened, Dutch-processed cocoa. There can be none better.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights. Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take regularly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c.

DECREE FOR SALE OF U. R. TO BE ENTERED FRIDAY

Form of Order Submitted to Judge Paris Suggests $46,600,000 as Minimum Price.

Federal Judge Paris on next Friday will enter a formal decree for the sale of the United Railways which has been in receivership since April, 1919. A suggested form of decree, submitted at a hearing today, fixes $46,600,000 as the minimum price for sale.

When the decree is entered, Judge Paris is expected to appoint a special master to conduct it and the master will fix the date of sale. As is known, all securities holders have united upon a plan of reorganization and are expected to be the only bidders for the property. In that event, the court will be called upon to approve the reorganization plan.

Associate City Counselor Dolan inquired of the court what disposition would be made of the city's $2,500,000 unpaid mill tax judgment. The court replied that the reorganization plan must include some offer to general creditors.

such as the city is, and the city's position will be heard at that time. The reorganization committee has been purchasing similar judgment claims on the basis of 60 cents on the dollar.

NOTICE!

Effective April 3d, local train No. 68, now leaving St. Louis at 7:00 a. m., and train No. 67, now arriving St. Louis 7:40 p. m. will be discontinued. Train No. 61 will arrive St. Louis at 11:30 a. m. instead of 9:10 a. m.

Anti-Saloon League's "Third House of Congress"

Final Installment of the Inside Story of the League's Super-Government at Washington

Wayne B. Wheeler Tells How He Puts Over Dry Propaganda On the Public and the Press

Coolidge Virtually Accused of Misfeasance in Document Which Was Suppressed in Committee by Only One Vote.

THE Anti-Saloon League has created at Washington a "third House of Congress." How this extra-governmental agency is financed, how it works, with a remarkable degree of success, to control elections and appointments, how it spreads its propaganda, often at Government expense; how it keeps watch on the White House—these and other significant disclosures are made in the Post-Dispatch article of which this is the third and last installment. WASHINGTON, March 29.—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, is revealed in a press-agent extraordinary—probably the most efficient procurer of publicity in the United States—in a report which he made to the executive committee of the league at its meeting at the Raleigh Hotel in Washington, Nov. 25, 1924. The Congressional Record, History, Collier's, Central Law Journal, the Forum and various other periodicals have carried articles which we have prepared."

Ready-Made Publicity.

The newspaper men have been very friendly and in most instances have informed us about releases of our opponents. We have immediately met those that were most damaging and either sent them before they ever got into the press, or got other statements of the same issue of the paper, or the same following, or even in the same article. We often reach 15,000 to 20,000,000 people with a release on a single day, giving them facts about prohibition at only a cost of a few stamps to send facts to the representatives of papers here at Washington. We know that there are some who think that possibly this is being equivalent of 7,407,543,792 such pages, which, at the rate of 500 pages per volume, would make a library of 15,000,000 volumes. Estimating the thickness of each volume at one inch, the library thus produced and circulated through these periodicals in the form of such books would fill a cabinet 30 bookshelves high and 24 miles long. The pages in such volumes, if placed end to end, would make a ribbon of temperance reading matter which could be wrapped around the world 40 times.

"Who shall say what sentiment has been created and crystallized and what service has been rendered to the cause of prohibition and sobriety by the printed truth that has gone forth to the world through these periodicals during the last 15 years?"

Printed "Without Earmarks."
The publication of dry periodicals is but one phase of the work done by Dr. Cherrington's "educational department." Like Dr. Wheeler, he knows the importance of getting the league's articles printed in magazines and newspapers of general circulation. The special publicity work of this sort which has been carried on by his department since 1919, he says, "can never be adequately estimated."

"Large numbers of special articles on various phases of the liquor problem have been prepared and furnished to newspapers, weeklies, journals and magazines," says Dr. Cherrington in the report. "Already quoted, 'Literally thousands of such articles have gone out from our publicity department and have appeared in the press without any personal earmarks and without any indication that they were the production of any department of the Anti-Saloon League. Much of such material has not been credited to the league, and yet it has been used to the extent of hundreds of thousands of columns of printed matter, whether the public press for the benefit of the public and the prohibition cause.'"

Plays With Both Parties.
The 1924 campaign, particularly the candidacy of the late Senator La Follette for the presidency, gave the Anti-Saloon League a great deal of trouble, according to reports Dr. Wheeler made to the executive committee in April and November of that year. These reports give an illuminating insight into the league's methods of training with the two major political parties both in primaries and in elections.

The April report showed that the league fought two Democratic Senators in the primaries in Kentucky and Tennessee and helped to defeat the effort of Senator George H. Moses (Rep.) of New Hampshire to be chosen as a delegate to the Republican national convention. Commenting on the defeat of Moses, Wheeler said: "The state league took an active part in the campaign against him, and many friends of the President opposed him because he would not state where he stood on the presidential issue. It has been stated that he had not a candidate for reelection."

"The opponents of the Cranston (prohibition reorganization) bill took some part in the campaign, carrying out the threat that was made in the Judiciary Committee of the House members of the committee who favored that legislation. In several congressional districts we found them quite active, yet no report was filed under the Federal election law of any expenses they incurred in these fights. I know of no district where a Congressman was defeated or materially affected by his vote for the Cranston bill."

Checking Up 1924 Results.
Wheeler was pleased with the 1924 results in Massachusetts, Delaware and Michigan, doubtful about Cole Blaise in South Carolina, and exultant over the victory of Guy D. Goff (Rep.), elected Senator from West Virginia. "Since the election, the death of Senator Lodge left a vacancy and Chairman Butler of the Republican party was appointed to take his place, which is a gain of another Senator from Massachusetts."

Boasts of Victory.
The November report was made after the elections. "We have met the enemy and they are ours," Field Marshal Wheeler boasted to the committee. He said that it had not been a hard campaign, one that called for considerable strategy. "Our problem was more difficult at the election because of the

Who's Who in the Anti-Saloon League

THE roster of the Anti-Saloon League's national officers, as shown in the records of the Reed Committee, is as follows:

President, Bishop Thomas Nicholson (Methodist), Detroit. Born in Canada in 1862, he became a citizen of the United States while in his teens.

Secretary, S. E. Nicholson, New York, Newspaper editor, born in Indiana.

Treasurer, Foster Copeland, Columbus, O. Banker, real estate and insurance man; born in Indiana.

General Superintendent, Rev. F. Scott McBride (Presbyterian), Westerville, O. General counsel, World League Against Alcoholism.

Associate General Superintendent, Rev. H. H. Russell (Congregationalist), Westerville, O. Editor, lawyer, clergyman; born in Minnesota. Founder, Anti-Saloon League. First American president, World League Against Alcoholism.

General Manager of Publishing Interests, E. H. Cherrington, Westerville, O. General secretary, World League Against Alcoholism. Lawyer.

General Counsel and League Superintendent, Wayne B. Wheeler, Washington. Born in Ohio. Lawyer.

Chairman of the Executive Committee, Rev. A. T. Barton (Baptist), Kansas City.

Among the other members are Arthur J. Davis, superintendent of the New York State Anti-Saloon League; Bishop James Cannon Jr., of Washington, a Methodist; S. S. Kresge, the 10-cent store magnate of Detroit; and Judge Richard J. Hopkins of the State Supreme Court of Kansas, native of Jefferson City, Mo.

La Follette campaign," Wheeler reported. "His committee decided to endorse both Democrats and Republicans who were friendly to his program, and in many districts where it was clear as to how the head of the ticket would go in the election, it was not at all clear whether Congressmen and United States Senators would be elected on the same ticket. In many districts there was strong opposition to Congressmen because they did not support the President in his campaign and in his veto of the bonus bill. The opposition took advantage of this and forced candidates into the field on independent tickets or, in the primaries, and made the ostensible issue when as a matter of fact it was a wet and dry fight in disguise."

"The opponents of the Cranston (prohibition reorganization) bill took some part in the campaign, carrying out the threat that was made in the Judiciary Committee of the House members of the committee who favored that legislation. In several congressional districts we found them quite active, yet no report was filed under the Federal election law of any expenses they incurred in these fights. I know of no district where a Congressman was defeated or materially affected by his vote for the Cranston bill."

What Money Would Have Done.
"Our experience in South Carolina simply shows the necessity of our having organizations that are effective for such campaigns as we faced in that State. If we had the funds to organize the State, or if we had an organization that was prepared to do the work as it is done in many other states, either Senator Dial or Congressman Byrnes would have been in the Senate (from South Carolina)."

But whatever his doubts about Cole Blaise, Wheeler was convinced that in Goff of West Virginia the league had found its beau ideal. Goff votes dry and is the father of several rigid prohibition bills. Wheeler devoted about 400 words to the report of him.

"In West Virginia, Col. Guy D. Goff, who has spoken at our conventions, and who is one of the outstanding advocates of the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement, was nominated after one of the most strenuous and spectacular campaigns waged in the country," Wheeler wrote. "He was one of four dry candidates against one wet Congressman who made a desperate effort to be nominated in the primary. Col. Goff, even with this handicap, was nominated by about 50,000."

"In the election campaign, Col. Goff's fight was made more difficult because the La Follette forces endorsed Senator Chilton; the wets were strongly against him, denouncing him in their bulletins as unsatisfactory, which was tantamount to giving their whole support to Senator Chilton. Senator Chilton has a record about 60 per cent dry and 40 per cent wet."

Loud Applause for Goff.
"Col. Goff made one of the most effective speeches ever made by any candidate for the United States Senate. He made 24 distinctive addresses which were of the highest possible type. He visited personally every county in the State and won his fight simply because he was fearless, honest and would serve them faithfully in the Senate."

"We shall have a staunch friend of our cause on the floor of the Senate, with ability equal to that of Senator Reed or Senator Stanley in debate."

Wheeler closed his November report with an appeal for more funds. He stated that he had asked a number of State superintendents for a list of prospective contributors, but only three had responded. He declared that he had personally raised $2515 from friends.

In one paragraph Wheeler said: "In many districts we called the attention of friends of the candidates to the necessities of the case and they furnished the funds directly without any connection with the league."

This would indicate that the league in some cases was responsible for contributions to dry candidates which do not show in the league's expenditures.

Criticized Davis' Campaign.
In the presidential campaign, according to the report, the legal and legislative department followed the league's policy of minimizing the wet and dry issue between the candidates.

"Mr. Davis was a disappointment because of his deviation from his own party platform on several issues," Wheeler reported. "Many of our Democratic friends told me frankly that it was an element of weakness in his campaign. His constant repetition of wet catch phrases like 'personal liberty,' 'illegal search and seizure' and 'home rule' gave the people the impression that he was making a bid for wet support. When one read his speeches and took his explanation, as he gave it to me personally, they were not so objectionable, but in allowing people in the wet centers to believe that he was against the prohibition cause and in using wet catch phrases I think he lost several votes in States where he might otherwise have had a chance to win for every vote he got from the wet centers."

Lining Up the Candidates.
"I think it would be well in future campaigns for us to print, near the close of the campaign, the statements of candidates on the prohibition issue, as well as the

Roy Haynes, as Federal Officer, Makes Confidential Report to League's Executive Chairman

permits for huge amounts of alcohol to those with a criminal record for violation of the prohibition laws.

Indictment of Administration.
"The Anti-Saloon League solemnly asserts the obvious truth that these facts as reported constitute an indictment of the Federal administration in respect to prohibition enforcement."

"The Constitution of the United States specifically places the duty of enforcing the laws upon the President of the United States. He is the only officer so charged in the Federal Constitution with responsibility for enforcement, and it is impossible for him to shift this responsibility to any Cabinet member or departmental official."

"The Anti-Saloon League cannot do less than the Constitution does in the recognition of law enforcement responsibility, and it therefore calls upon Calvin Coolidge, the President of the United States, publicly to declare that past and present conditions, which amount to a hindrance to the cause of enforcement, do not represent the policy of his administration. And the Anti-Saloon League further calls upon the President to indicate his acceptance of enforcement responsibility by the institution of methods fitted to secure enforcement of the law, and the triumph of the Government over the bootlegger and his affiliated outlaws."

Blunt Letter to Coolidge.
Instead of forcing this assault upon and challenge to the President, the Executive Committee sent him a copy of the Pinchot address with a blunt covering letter. "There is a widespread feeling throughout the country," said the committee in this letter, "that the Treasury Department and other departments having in their charge the enforcement of the prohibition law are not doing their duty."

"Our people will not consent to the proposition that a great republic cannot enforce its laws. They will co-operate in all sincere and well-directed efforts, but they will not tolerate evasion or inefficiency. Inasmuch as the chief responsibility in these matters rests with the President, we are respectfully bringing them to his attention."

The letter was prepared by Rev. A. J. Barton of Kansas City, chairman of the Executive Committee; Bishop Thomas Nicholson, F. Scott McBride and Judge Hopkins of the Supreme Court of Kansas. It brought merely a formal acknowledgment from Everett Sanders, secretary to the President.

Mellon Makes Reply.
A copy of the Pinchot speech was sent also to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who wrote two letters about it to Dr. Barton. In the first he said that he had a personal interview with the Pennsylvania Governor and in the second he declared that Pinchot's address, "necessarily founded on incomplete data and prepared without any attempt to wipe out, contains many inaccuracies and direct conclusions." He added that he did not desire to make a public answer to the speech, for it would perhaps lead only to additional and harmful controversy."

"The chief thing in which we are all interested is the advancement of prohibition enforcement," Mellon wrote. "The department is earnestly engaged upon this work; many improved regulations to this end have been promulgated and others are now under consideration. The department asks that the friends of prohibition enforcement support its efforts and assist it in the discharge of heavy responsibility."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight denunciations of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

The Chinese Crisis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

FOLLOWING the daily news columns, one can only wonder what is the object in the United States Government's mixing up with the British-Chinese imbroglio. Having lived in the Orient many years, two of which I spent in service of the United States during the Boxer war in China, I believe I have a fair idea of what England's bone of contention is. Since the days when Clive consolidated the British power in India England has steadily hammered just for one purpose: The control of Asia!

Before undertaking any aggressive movement against China, our Government should stop and consider the future. China is a land of 500,000,000 people. As a friend she can buy our goods and in case of need guard our western coast; as an enemy she may be in a position to some day do us irreparable injury. England and France can afford to gamble; anyhow it is only a matter of few more years until England must loosen her hold on India. The imperial fabric built upon greed, perfidy and heartless oppression even now is slowly but surely crumbling away.

Since the days of the Tai-ping rebellion, when England disclaimed any support of Gordon when he failed in his object of disrupting the Chinese empire, England has assiduously tried to force her power on China. And now, with the aid of the United States, she hopes to conquer the different factions in detail. If she can get us to help her, to hold these subjugated peoples, she may hope to prolong her hold on India.

That China shall quietly submit, is impossible to conceive. China during her history of over 5000 years has shown recuperative powers unequalled by any other peoples. Kingdoms, empires and republics have risen and fallen all over the world, but China has always survived.

JOHN SLISZ.

Taxpayers' Hard-Earned Money.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOU are pleased to print an extract from The Mercury complaining that the United States spent something like $4000 on the funeral expenses of the late Senator Spencer. Compared with the annual income of the United States that expense is exactly the same, relatively, as the squandering of one hundred cents by an individual who has four million dollars in cash. Cannot magazine writers find something more important to worry about?

MATHEMATICIAN.

Inaccurate Spring Sales.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM a stranger in your city, and here for medical treatment, and am trying to keep a tab on my weight, by the "penny in the slot" scales, scattered about in your city. In the downtown district, I tried one scale and wanted to verify it by weighing on another scale, but found a difference of four pounds in the two scales. I tried four out at the Terminal depot. Two of them weighed alike, the other two showed a difference of two and three pounds. A penny is not much to lose, but why not give honest weight for honest money? How about the "Honest Weight and Measure" laws? I would be glad if the attention of the scale companies would be called to it.

HENRY MILLER.

Letters Carriers Against Daylight Saving.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SHOULD the efforts to revive the daylight saving idea prove successful, it would work a hardship upon us to this extent: Rising at 4:20 a. m. or earlier, under present conditions, would force us to rise an hour earlier, and an hour's sleep at that time is the most restful of the night, therefore, be it resolved,

That we, Branch 343, National Association of Letter Carriers, in meeting assembled, protest against any change in time of the working hours, and that the secretary be instructed to notify the Board of Aldermen and the daily press of our city of our action.

Democratic Renegades.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PERMIT me to congratulate you on your very apt editorial in Friday's paper entitled, "Public Welfare Kicked Downstairs." That is an apt title to a most excellent and truthful editorial.

The term "Democratic renegades" is well put and gives the right title to a group of men who will sacrifice principle for revenge or whatever else the cause may have been.

Again complimenting you on this excellent editorial, I am,
W. M. QABERSON.

SMOKE MUST GO.

The Post-Dispatch, which has been engaged in campaigning for smoke abatement more than a third of a century, finds hope revived by the enthusiasm and practical plans of the Citizens Smoke Abatement League.

The meeting of the 500 workers of the League at Hotel Chase last night indicated a determination to carry on the present plan until definite and substantial results are obtained. The collection of $110,000 of the $250,000 fund to be raised to support the work of smoke abatement for a three-year period is proof of the kind of support the league is obtaining from citizens and of the widespread and genuine sentiment in favor of smoke abatement.

The entire fund should be subscribed quickly. The men and women who are doing the work are volunteers. Their interest in clearing the atmosphere is no greater than that of any one of the million citizens whose comfort, health and means are impaired by the cloud of soot and smoke which blankets the city and its suburbs. The $250,000 is an investment, a pittance in comparison with the estimated losses due to smoke. It is estimated that the loss and waste on account of smoke are not less than $19,000,000 a year. This is a modest estimate, when all the losses and waste that goes out of the chimneys are taken into consideration.

The fund will be expended in accordance with a definite plan for practical purposes. It will be used for education, personal instruction by firing experts who will co-operate with the public, and the maintenance of the firing school on the Olive Street road. There will be no excuse for ignorance of antismoke methods of firing on the part of any janitor, fireman or head of a smoke-making concern.

Mayor Miller commended the citizens for organizing the work, saying it was necessary to have a voluntary organization, because the city administration was so burdened with public improvements and municipal activities that it could not undertake smoke abatement. The city administration, however, must co-operate fully with the citizens' organization. The agencies for inspection and law enforcement are in the hands of the municipal government. Lack of co-operation on the part of the city has wrecked several promising campaigns. The campaign preceding this, which was accomplishing substantial results, was blocked by the action of Director of Public Safety McKelvey, who refused to appoint inspectors who would co-operate with the citizens' committee. When spoliemen instead of experts are appointed to the offices which must deal with smoke abatement, results will be practically nil.

We take it, therefore, that when the Mayor, shifting the main burden to the Smoke Abatement League, offers co-operation, that he and his associates in the city government will co-operate fully, that efficient men will be kept in the smoke commission, that the inspectors, and that the ordinance will be enforced when enforcement is necessary.

St. Louis is spending huge sums for improvements. We are engaged in the task of increasing utilities and facilities, widening streets, erecting beautiful public buildings, opening plazas and playgrounds. The beneficial effects of all this work will be impaired and the city will be heavily handicapped in competition with others if the smoke cloud is not abated. Until we get sunshine and pure air, not only will there be discomfort, discontent and a waste for the present population, but the growth of the city will be hampered.

SMOKE MUST GO.

ENGLISH HUMOR.

Was there no redeeming feature to the silly action of the British Government in not permitting Roger Baldwin, head of the American Civil Liberties Union, to stay more than two weeks in England? Of course there was. The action was another proof that whoever first accused the English of not having a sense of humor was the originator of an international louse.

Do you remember the case of Saklatvala, the Communist member of the British House of Commons? Do you remember what happened to him when he contemplated coming as one of his country's delegates to the Congress of the Interparliamentary Union, held at Washington, in 1925? To be sure you do. Our Government slammed the door in his face, on the ground that he was a dangerous red, and that his coming might, therefore, destroy constituted government in the United States.

At the time, reports from London intimated that this action of our nervous Secretary of State was agreeable to the British Government. But that was just the nice, polite, English way of taking it. No nation likes to have its nationals treated discourteously by other nations. The British just made the best of things, and quietly bided their time until an opportunity came of giving us some of our own medicine. That opportunity was the coming to England of Mr. Baldwin, who, as the British know, is at least a defender of radicals, if he isn't a radical himself. So the British put a limit on Mr. Baldwin's visit in their country, thus being a trifle more polite than we had been when we hanned Saklatvala from any contact with our shores.

It was just a practical joke of a high order, and it proved that the English have a humor that is a good deal more profound than our own.

SPRING IN BUDAPEST.

In Budapest soft eyes may not look love at eyes that speak again, that is, they may not do so unless the possessor of the soft eyes evades the kendermas. In blunder words, an antifirting campaign is on. Budapest, which is kissed by the waters of the Danube, is noted for its strikingly beautiful women. It has always seemed to us to be the very capital of Romany, an ancient and lovely fortress of sentiment. Yet Budapest is celebrating spring by filling the jails with flirts. It is acting, not like a magic Old World city, but like a Boston, a Milwaukee or a Zion City, Ill. Another illusion gone bloozy.

ST. LOUIS SHOWS MISSOURI.

I never saw such interest and such indignation in St. Louis as there is over this Orrick matter. I am satisfied that if the Governor resubmits the nomination Orrick will be confirmed.

This is the observation of Senator Michael Kinney, a veteran in politics who knows his city. His judgment is correct. He might, perhaps, have gone further. He might safely have said that rarely, if ever, had public sentiment expressed itself so explosively in any city over a matter of political appointment as it has in St. Louis in this instance.

Just what this demonstration may mean to the legislators at Jefferson City we can only surmise, but it ought to be enlightening. What does it mean? Here is a public servant in whom the talents and tricks that so often make for popularity are conspicuously absent. The only claim he has on public esteem is integrity of purpose and the efficiency of his work. The complaining politicians who want him ousted are quite right in describing him as "cold and unapproachable." A man of such reserve and austere demeanor necessarily can have no personal following such as "good fellowship" entails. But his official following is the entire city save only fragmentary elements.

The people of St. Louis want competent police direction. They want fidelity in office. They are for law, order and clean government.

That is what the reaction in the Orrick case means. Is it too much to hope that this truth has penetrated the consciousness of our legislators? To mention one legislator by name, is it too much to hope that Representative Thomas Roney of Webb City, as he observes this city-wide support of Col. Orrick, may be moved to apologize for his offensive comment on St. Louis during the debate on the home rule bill which he opposed, or at least to reconsider his sour, bigoted and uninformed opinion of St. Louis?

It goes without saying that every citizen of St. Louis, with the exceptions noted, is proud of his city's deportment in this affair. And every citizen of Missouri ought to be proud of St. Louis. Especially should our legislators be proud—and thoughtful. They ought to realize that St. Louis is as morally trustworthy as any community in this State. They ought to realize that St. Louis has given striking proof of its moral capacity to govern itself. They ought to realize that they have been unfair to St. Louis, and they ought to make practical amends by enabling St. Louis to direct its own affairs.

Missourians proverbially have to be shown. St. Louis has shown Missouri.

PUTTING SEA URCHINS IN PANTS.

It is in fountains that imagery still persists. Nymphs disport, gargoyles squirt water through their teeth, and mermaids splash. There is so much gurglesquetry that seeing a sculptural fountain we are too amused to be shocked.

It is so in the group which Adolph A. Wineman has placed in front of the Capitol at Jefferson City. Among other things in this playful fountain there are sea urchins pouring water upon the backs of Titans. When you pour cold water on the back of a Titan his expression is a scream. There is nothing like it on the comic page. These Titans at Jefferson City have their faces all screwed up with torment, and you can imagine how the sea urchins look. They moreover have wet young bodies, which, you may have noticed around swimming places, are beautiful. All very well, but some of the members of the Legislature reeled when they saw the urchins. These mischievous lads are quite nude. There is not a stitch on them, if you please. They are just plain naked. So the Legislature is asked to pass a resolution abating this offense. It is asked to put the urchins in bathing suits or short pants. The Legislature hesitates, playing for adjournment. The million dollars which Missouri has expended for art at the Capitol has not been in vain. Meanwhile, the sea urchins, the unblinking little scamps, pour cold water on the backs of the Titans, and the Titans bellow.

Thus is the world brought to Missouri, and things of which she was undreaming. She will not, happily, put the sea urchins in pants.

JUDICIAL SALARIES.

There is a bill in the Senate to increase the salaries of Judges who are now serving. The Constitution of Missouri has spoken unequivocally on this point. Article VI, section 33, reads:

Judges, salaries not to be changed during term.—The Judges of the Supreme, Appellate and Circuit courts, and of all courts of record receiving a salary, shall, at stated times, receive such compensation for their services as may be prescribed by law; but it shall not be increased or diminished during the period for which they were elected.

This provision of the Constitution can be evaded. It already has been. The Forty-eighth General Assembly raised the salaries of Judges by prescribing so-called extra official duties at special pay. Whether the letter of the Constitution was violated by that act of bounty may perhaps be debatable. That the spirit of the Constitution was violated is unquestionable.

There is but one thing for a Judge in office to do, if his salary is inadequate. Resign. To contrive or to accept an increase of salary in the face of the Constitution injunction is to flout the Constitution. If there is an official in the whole roster of our State government who cannot afford to bore a hole in the Constitution it is the Judge of a court of record. He of all men should lean backward in his respect for the organic law. If he fails in that solemn obligation he has set a menacing example of lawlessness.

THE BAYARD OF GOLF.

Bobby Jones won another golf trophy last week. The experience is so familiar that the thrill, we suppose, is rather mild. But there ought to be a real thrill for this extraordinary young man in the concise and deserved estimate paid him in Wray's Column on the Post-Dispatch.

Here is a bona fide amateur who has steadfastly refused to profit financially from his skill at golf. Tempting inducements have been held out, some of which he could have accepted without impairing his status in official judgment or in public opinion. To all of them he has turned a deaf ear. How much he has sacrificed can only be estimated, but it runs into appetizing figures. "And Jones is not rich." So in his case it is a sacrifice.

Something more than a great golfer is Bobby Jones, amateur without flaw or blemish. In this pragmatic age of "take the cash and let the credit go" he is a gallant gentleman.

THE DICTATOR.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

MORE RUMOR THAN BLOOD.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.
SHANGHAI has fallen. The news has been given considerable prominence. There are reports of atrocities. Women's fingers are said to have been cut off in the mad desire to obtain rings. Other familiar forms of looting are declared to have taken place. It is interesting, however, to note that the most serious atrocities occurred outside the foreign settlement. In other words, the atrocities appear to have increased in numbers in direct proportion to their distance from telegraph wires.

In the international settlement itself there appears to have been no little anxiety and some threats of violence, but not a great deal of actual violence so far as the Chinese were concerned. Two Englishmen and a French priest are reported to have gone through "bullet-swept" streets to the rescue of 300 orphans. They all returned unhurt. The only atrocity in this case was that the Englishmen were held prisoners a couple of hours. The two English soldiers wounded were the victims of a mob of panic-stricken Chinese of the defeated Northern army trying to fight their way to safety in the foreign settlement. At latest report, even the Chinese section of Shanghai was said to be quiet. Considering the numbers involved and the importance of the event, the capture of Shanghai appears to have been a singularly orderly affair.

Why, then, the prominence given to looting, cutting off of fingers and other atrocities? The suspicion will not dawn that the foreigners in Shanghai are excited. They are not certain what they may have to do next. If Chinese have to be killed, is it not better that they be described in advance as the sort of Chinese who loot and cut off women's fingers? Foreigners in Shanghai must see to it in advance that if there is conflict, morality is on their side.

NEVADA'S GOLD RUN.

From the Portland Oregonian.

THE story of the fabulous richness of Weepah ore is an old-told tale for the western pioneer. But it is ever new to each new generation. By luck rock heavy with gold is found on land that has been traversed for years by unsuspecting prospectors, and the discovery claims are located. The unfailing optimism that is characteristic of the West, especially of the prospector, draws thousands to the spot where the gold is proved to be rich. The significance of that word "adjoin" is stretched to cover a whole mountain range or a whole county of desert. But realization rarely comes up to expectation. A few profitable mines are the usual result of each stampede. Mining settles down to a prosaic daily job of digging, hoisting, milling and smelting, and the prospectors scatter to follow every whisper of a new find. They have no taste for a wage-earner's job hundreds of feet underground. They want life in the open, marked by long periods of wandering and hardship between short intervals of prosperity when they "strike it rich" and make sales. Nevada seems to be the last paradise of the gold-seeker.

"DISARMAMENT" IN PARLIAMENT.

From the Nation.

THE sermon on the mount read and debated in the House of Commons? Yes, that actually happened on March 17. The issue, so the dispatches read, was squarely presented whether Great Britain should not disarm altogether "and become the first real Christian nation." Arthur Ponsonby, admirable fighter for peace that he is, initiated the debate by moving that the British air force be done away with. The effect was remarkable. Although it was a private member's motion and not a Government one, it took an entire day's debate to dispose of it. That only twenty-four members voted for it is no reason for discouragement. How many great and successful causes have polled fewer votes at the beginning? Even the Air Minister felt compelled to speak to the motion seriously, and to bring up the old argument that one must first convert one's neighbors to good-will and peace. Incidentally a Labor member, William Shephard, himself a veteran, who read the Sermon on the Mount in the historic products in which it has usually been flouted, dwelt upon the interesting fact that the foreigners who have been safest in China during all these troubles have been the Germans. The reason, he explained, was that Germany has no troops and no gunboats in China to "protect" her nationals and anger the Chinese.

BARNSTORMING IN ENGLAND.

From Tit-Bits, London.

THE manager of a touring company wired to the proprietor of a theater in a small town where his company was to appear: "Would like to hold rehearsal in your theater at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Have stage manager, stage carpenter, property man, electricians, and all stage hands present at that hour."

Later he received the following reply: "All right. He will be there."

JOHN S. NEIHARDT

Books in Brief

POEMS OF WORLD BROTHERHOOD. Compiled by Thomas Curtis Clark and Esther A. Gillespie. (Bobbs-Merrill.)

An anthology of lyrics in which they seem to have been manufactured. Very rarely one comes upon a poem of the sort that has genuine lyric magic in it. One suspects that they are generally written by people who wish to have lofty thoughts, but really have not. And there is not an essential error in the theme. Is it not the dominant conception of values that makes the trouble? And while men generally believe that the getting of things and power for themselves is the supreme good, why dream of organizing such minds into a nonpredatory world unit?

WHY BE NERVOUS? By Clara Clemens. (Harpers.)

Clara Clemens, the distinguished singer and daughter of Mark Twain, tells simply how she overcame a strong predisposition to nervousness and ill-health. The principles set forth are as old as Oriental philosophy and as new as modern psychology.

SCIENCE OF TODAY. By Sir Oliver Lodge. (Harpers.)

In nontechnical language, Sir Oliver Lodge explains first the conception of the atom that was held by scientists when people, now middle-aged, were going to school. Then he tells what the atom really is like; that is to say, he explains the latest, but certainly not the last, theory. Some have noted that fundamental scientific theory corresponds strangely with fundamental social tendency. Which influences the other? Or are they interactive? Or do both grow out of a prevailing social temper which is economically determined?

FASCISM. By Giuseppe Prezzolini. (E. P. Dutton & Co.)

"I shall endeavor," says the author, "to keep this book free from party hatred, sweeping assertions, predictions, malice, bitterness or apprehension, reviewing the events which have taken place in Italy during the years immediately following the war with the same impersonal interest as one would bring to the consideration of the inevitable, or to the study of such chimerical questions as the Athens and the East."

COLLEGE LIFE from the inside or, the story of a worm that turned, is the subject matter of "The Poor Nut," an hilarious satire which came to the American Theater last night with Elliott Nugent, who wrote the piece, in the stellar role. Young Mr. Nugent had, as co-author, his father, J. C. Nugent, who has spent most of his life in the variety theaters where Hokum, spelled with a capital H, is the main order of the day. Naturally enough, Elliott Nugent has become thoroughly familiar with the different brands of sure fire laugh material during his long habitation of the halls, and he has injected enough of it into his son's enterprising plot to make the piece a most amusing and enjoyable comedy. The situations are bright, the lines are keen and sparkling and, while the mind is not overtaxed with any problems of sex or crime, "The Poor Nut" is as fine a little show as one would care to see.

Nugent himself, is the poor nut—a boy working his way through Ohio State University and held back by an inferiority complex and a desire to devote his life to the study of algae which, until last night, he never dreamed is the acum which gathers on the surface of stagnant pools. We may even be wrong about the definition now, but it will probably appear in the "Ten Questions for Today" columns later on with the answer on the following page, so the matter can be verified.

Ohio State is a co-ed college, and our hero's sense of inferiority extends to the girls. Two of them try and make a man of him—one by psycho-analyzing him and the other by encouraging him to drink "a grain of alcohol." Between them the poor nut finds himself, makes the fraternity he dreamed of, wins the last leg of the relay race between his school and Wisconsin.

Of course, there are two sides to every question; there are also two sides to every mirror, but only one used side.

How to make TEA correctly

Firstly

Be sure you use India Tea, or a blend containing India Tea.

Secondly

Use an earthenware teapot, and put into it one good teaspoonful of India Tea for each cup of tea required.

Thirdly

Be sure you pour the water into the teapot the moment it boils. Only fresh boiling water can bring out the true flavour of the tea. Hot water is noise. Water that has been boiling for some time does not give the best results. This is important if you want a really good cup of tea.

Fourthly

Allow the tea to stand 5 minutes to infuse. Put a little cream or milk into each cup before pouring out the tea. It greatly improves the flavour. Then add sugar to taste.

Any retailer or store can supply you with India Tea or blends containing India Tea. He has no difficulty in getting it, as practically every wholesale distributor of tea in this district supplies India Tea. He will gladly get it for you—but—

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone and two or three more applications will completely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store, and it never fails to do the work.

ties. Such co-operation can only result in added success."

Haynes as Liaison Officer.

Two days later Commissioner Haynes wrote Barton a confidential letter as a supplement to the Mellon reply. This letter shows Haynes functioning in his capacity of liaison officer between the Treasury and the Anti-Saloon League.

"The letter from the Secretary expresses very definitely his feelings in the matter," Haynes wrote. "However, I feel that your committee should have for your confidential consideration a rather detailed statement, necessarily somewhat labored and technical, replying to the specific charges made by the Governor. I agree that to dignify this address by a public statement would only precipitate an almost endless, useless and harmful controversy through the press. At the same time I informed the Secretary that I felt that your committee should have additional facts, and he has agreed, with the understanding that this letter of transmittal and the attached memorandum shall be considered PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL, and of the information of your committee only. I know you will so regard it."

"I believe that much of the confusion which seems to have been created in the mind of the Governor has resulted from a lack of centralization of responsibility in the matter of issuance of basic and withdrawal of alcohol permits, which have been known as collectors' permits, and the full responsibility for which was not transferred to the prohibition authorities until August of this year (1925)."

Barton Sure Al Smith Could Win.

An interesting byproduct of the controversy started by Gov. Pinchot's speech was a "personal and confidential" letter in which Dr. Barton, writing to Commissioner Haynes on Dec. 8, 1925, made a statement strikingly at variance with the frequent public boast of the Anti-Saloon League that no wet can ever be elected President of the United States.

"If Al Smith should succeed in getting the Democratic nomination in the present confused situation," wrote the chairman of the Executive Committee of the Anti-Saloon League, "he will defeat Coolidge or any other man that the Republicans may name. This makes it tremendously important that Mr. Coolidge and the whole administration shall become aggressive and militant for prohibition enforcement and that each of the major parties shall declare out and out for prohibition and for prohibition enforcement in their platforms at the next national conventions."

"Of course, if Al Smith's influence should control in the Democratic convention, such declaration would be impossible there. Whatever the facts in the case, the Republican convention ought to make such declaration without question or equivocation. I want you to think the matter over carefully and to see to it that the President and his closest and most influential advisers understand the situation. The only way for the present administration and for the Republicans to meet the possibility of the domination of the Democratic party by personalities and wet influence is to be more aggressive and more militant for prohibition."

Dr. Barton filed a copy of this letter with the league's Executive Committee and it became a part of the minutes.

Pinchot's Attack on Haynes.

In the speech referred to, Gov. Pinchot attacked the Federal Government's permit system and declared that Commissioner Haynes had allowed known bootleggers to carry on their activities under the guise of legitimate business. He cited several specific instances in which holders of Federal permits in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia had violated the national prohibition law and had not been molested by Federal officers. In two or three cases he said the Federal Government had allowed these companies to withdraw even greater quantities of alcohol than their original permits called for. He contrasted the work of the State officers under his own jurisdiction with that of the Federal agents.

"Every resource of the State administration has been used for the enforcement of the law," Pinchot declared. "During my term the State police have made more than 10,000 arrests for violation of the liquor laws, and arrests enough, if the remainder of the machinery of justice had been as effective as the State police, to make Pennsylvania bone dry."

"Pittsburgh, the home of Secretary Mellon, whose good citizens have appealed to him over and over again to put an end to open and notorious violations of the law, is the one exception. It is so because the controlling political forces in Pittsburgh have succeeded in nullifying every effort of the State administration to reduce bootlegging and make the town dry."

After comparing the Federal and the State dry law enforcement, Pinchot declared: "We are winning out. For example, there are in Pennsylvania 64 nonpermit breweries and 33 under Federal permit. Of the 64, not one is making strong beer. There is not one gallon of high-powered beer being manufactured in a Pennsylvania brewery today except under the protection of a Federal permit. Where such permit exists, the State authorities are helpless."

Haynes Reports to the League.

This statement brought forth a denial from Commissioner Haynes in his confidential "statement of facts" to the league's Executive Committee. "Nonpermit breweries defy Federal agents to enter their

THE MYSTERY OF PARIS

By Sarah Van Rensselaer

Paris and Fashion are synonymous. Every answer to every question of where does a Fashion originate is answered by "Paris"—and, in the same breath with the names of Patou, Poiret, Vionnet, Chanel, Reboux, etc. That's supposed to satisfy all curiosity on the subject—but it never does—at least, not with me. One always visualizes these Kings and Queens of Fashion enthroned in their establishments and creating out of thin air the fashions that are to revolutionize the mode with each successive season.

The little scene is almost true but not quite. The Kings and Queens do not stay at their courts but they and their envoys roam the world—for ideas. Paris is not the source of Fashion—rather this world we live in is.

While in Africa, Reboux saw a comely African belle in her dress headgear and with her infinite imagination saw an adaptation of this outlandish affair for the modern smart woman. Poiret in Russia was beguiled by a group of peasants working in the field. Their raskish blouses fascinated him—and, so we have the present smart costume blouse because of his powers of visualization.

All these inimitable artists travel constantly—and, from the lowliest object to the most exalted, they get their inspiration. From the Arabian desert at sunset came the color that has been so much in vogue in hosiery for these seasons past. From the court costume of a lovely Spanish queen came the stitchery of the new cuffed gloves. And, yes, from the dancing girls on our own stage came the first brief underthings. On, and on—and on, ad infinitum.

The making of a fashion is an absorbing task—but it takes its creators far afield into strange lands among strange people—oftentimes into the hazy past just for that elusive will-o'-the-wisp—an idea. It may interest you to know that Kayser was first with the new desert shade in HOSE— with the new GLOVE stitchery—and, the first brief styles in UNDERWEAR.

Why The Cleveland Press carried more lines of advertising in 1926 than any other Cleveland Daily

And more lines of local advertising in six days than any other Cleveland paper carried in seven days.

No advertiser who seeks a dominant position in the key cities of America can afford to overlook Cleveland... with its industrial workers earning $210,000,000 a year... and their bank deposits amounting to a billion dollars.

But... in attempting to cover Cleveland... any advertiser who passes up the Press overlooks the most powerful selling factor in this amazingly rich market.

For the readers of the Press own most of Cleveland's vast wealth!

This is no idle statement...

The Press has a coverage of one copy a day for every Cleveland English-speaking family. It has 38,000 more city circulation... 36,000 more TRUE Cleveland Market circulation... and more total circulation than any other daily in Ohio.

But even these impressive figures, conclusive as they are, tell only part of the story behind the circulation-supremacy of the Press.

By far the most significant part of the story is this...

Every reader of the Press buys it, not because of any forced circulation methods... but because of his overwhelming preference for its interesting and virile news columns.

The First SCRIPPS-HOWARD NEWSPAPER

From the sound ideals and principles of journalism laid down by E. W. Scripps in The Cleveland Press, his first property, sprang the world's greatest league of dailies—the "Scripps-Howard Newspapers."

This mighty organization is today truly representative of the growth of The Cleveland Press which gave it birth and which continues to be one of its leading newspapers.

Never during its entire colorful career as Cleveland's dominant home paper... has the Press offered premiums... held a voting contest... or resorted to any high-pressure circulation-building schemes.

During the past year, two of its chief competitors spent over half of a million dollars in two of the largest contests ever held in newspaper history.

Yet in the face of these stupendous drives, the Press continued its steady growth... without the aid of any subscription inducements whatsoever... and today, more than ever, maintains its circulation leadership.

That is why the local merchants of Cleveland whose appropriations must daily show a profit in over-the-counter sales have, during 1926, placed more lines of advertising with the Press in six days than they have with any other Cleveland paper in seven days.

And it is this recognized strength of the Press as the best selling medium among Cleveland home folks that accounts also for its amazing record of 15,175,112 lines of paid advertising last year... a record that exceeded by 3,671,175 lines the total lineage of any other Cleveland daily.

Here are several instances of Cleveland Press advertising leadership during the 12 months of 1926. A booklet containing a complete and detailed analysis of all advertising classifications is now being prepared. May we send you a copy?

RADIO

The Press ran 40,000 more lines of radio advertising than the daily Plain Dealer, the daily News and the Sunday News combined. Four times as much as the daily Plain Dealer, nearly 100,000 lines more than both other dailies combined.

FOOD

The Press ran 258,107 more lines of Grocery advertising in six days than the Plain Dealer ran in seven days... and 377,716 more lines in six days than the News ran in seven days.

TOILET GOODS
The Press published more toilet goods advertising than the daily Plain Dealer and daily News combined, more for national advertisers in six days than the Plain Dealer published in seven, and more than the News published in seven days.

CLOTHING

The Press ran more clothing advertising in six days than either the News or the Plain Dealer ran in seven. Twice as much for local merchants as the daily Plain Dealer, and five times as much for national advertisers as the daily News.

JEWELRY

The Press ran more than twice as much jewelry advertising in six days as the Plain Dealer ran in seven, and four times as much as the News ran in seven, and nearly three times as much as both other Cleveland daily newspapers combined.

FURNITURE

The Press ran twice as much furniture advertising as the daily and Sunday Plain Dealer combined, more than the seven-day Plain Dealer and the seven-day News combined, more than 9 times as much for local merchants as the daily Plain Dealer.

HOUSEHOLD

The Press ran nearly as much household advertising as both other daily newspapers combined, twice as much as the daily News, more for national advertisers than both the daily Plain Dealer and the Sunday Plain Dealer combined.

AUTO ACCESSORIES
The Press ran more auto parts and accessory advertising than both the other Cleveland daily newspapers combined. Twice as much for local merchants as both others combined, nearly as much in six days as the Plain Dealer and the Sunday Plain Dealer combined.

TOBACCO

The Press ran 34,000 more lines of tobacco advertising than the daily Plain Dealer, three times as much as the Sunday Plain Dealer, 84,000 lines more than the daily and Sunday News combined. More than any other Cleveland daily newspaper.

Rival Editor Asks if He Wants to Be Gov. Al Smith's Running Mate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHARLOTTE, S. C., March 29.—Recent contributions on the subject of presidential possibilities by Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and Secretary of the Navy in Wilson's Cabinet, have inspired his afternoon neighbor, the Raleigh Times, published by John A. Park, to put into cold print the blunt question that residents of North Carolina have been whispering to one another for months.

The Times, editorially, wants to know if Daniels is "steering his personal ambition toward the berth of Vice President to the present Governor of New York?"

The politically curious have been trying to find that out ever since the Smith boom headed into the South. They are guessing that when Daniels said in Atlantic City that "a wet President could not effect a repeal" of the prohibition amendment he was assuring the dry Democrats that Gov. Smith's wetness would not cut any ice in the event of his election to the presidency.

The Times cites Daniels' faint criticism of the abolition of the presidential primary, "and an amendment of Hefflin's platitude that wet money could not buy dry morals."

premises without search warrants," he answered. "Huge organizations are perfected to buy the interests of breweries who have been denied permits. They begin operation immediately. They protect their premises from invasion by high board fences, the top encircled with barbed-wire entanglements. They patrol their premises for a radius of 10 miles by motor cycle. Their products go out in covered trucks in unlabeled bottles and barrels. They use concrete underground passageways. Flashlight signals are employed to warn the brewery of agents in the vicinity. Telephone poles are used for the installation of push buttons, and motor cycle accomplices, through this means, give notice of the approach of strangers. They have a far-reaching and well-organized detective system whereby every Federal agent is under observation. Thus it will be seen that it is the non-permit brewery in Pennsylvania which is the chief source of trouble."

With this intimate view of an officer of the Government making a confidential report to the Anti-Saloon League, the story may appropriately end.

Rest and relax... take the baths... drink the health-building waters. Or enjoy the life out-of-doors in the glorious spring sunshine... a game of golf... a canter thru the woods... dancing and bridge in the evenings.

U. S. PLEADS FOR LIMITATION ON ARMY RESERVES

Gibson, at Geneva Conference, Contends That Question Is Crux of Whole Problem.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Switzerland, March 29.—Declaring that the man in the street must have a clear picture of what the world is trying to do toward disarmament if there is to be hope for success of the disarmament movement, the American delegate, Hugh Gibson, intervened at today's meeting of the Preparatory Commission and presented the American view on the problem of limiting trained reserves.

He insisted that failure to take reserves into consideration meant that 90 per cent of the military strength of a country was kept out of the picture.
He spoke after M. Louzon, president of the commission, had announced that, although the commission was unable to agree on the question of reserves, it had consented, in a spirit of conciliation, to accept the first reading of the French thesis that limitation apply only to troops which can be employed without the necessity of mobilization.

Gibson said the question of trained reserves and reserve material constituted the crux of the whole problem, because the nation possessing them could begin fighting offensive battles immediately while a nation without them would be unable to engage in an offensive under a year's time and would run the gravest danger of disaster.

He then proposed putting the reserves in the picture in a manner fair to countries with conscript and volunteer systems, by placing the strength of the active armies and the strength of the trained reserves in tables annexed to the eventual disarmament treaty, thus permitting possible measures of limitation and reduction.
Greece Buys Horse Cabs.
Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch, Athens, Feb. 28.—Athens, old cab drivers are selling their horses and cabs to the Greek Government, which is making an effort to clear out the antiquated vehicles in favor of taxicabs. Most of the veteran cabbies have received about $200, though the oldest drivers come out best, the young ones getting less indemnification. Some of the men are getting together, combining in twos, for the purchase of an automobile to replace their old cabs. A small automobile costs about $265 and so far more than 1000 indemnified drivers have bought automobiles.

SMOKE CRUSADERS START CAMPAIGN TO GET $135,000

Five Hundred Men and Women Begin Soliciting Business Firms to Complete $250,000 Fund.

Five hundred men and women workers today began a 10-day campaign to raise the balance of a $250,000 fund for the next three years' work of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League.

Final instructions to the workers were given at a dinner last night at Hotel Chase, at which subscriptions of approximately $115,000 were announced by the Advanced Citizens' Committee, which has been soliciting large subscriptions for several weeks.

The remainder of the fund will be solicited from business firms throughout the city. No campaign among individuals is planned. The women's division of the campaign is soliciting subscriptions west of Grand boulevard and the men's division is working to the east.

Stomach So Bad He Staggered Like Drunk

"I suffered from stomach trouble and had auto-intoxication so bad that I staggered like drunk. Since taking Adlerika, I feel like a new man, have gained 17 pounds and can do a better day's work."—F. J. Pooler.

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. It is excellent for intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Unlike most medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestine a REAL cleansing and bringing out old poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily, you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out which may have been infecting the smoke evil by an intensive educational campaign on proper methods of using soft coal was expressed by speakers at last night's meeting.

Enactment of an ordinance "with teeth in it," to supplant the present one, which he described as "a poor weapon," was advocated by Mayor Miller as one means of furthering smoke abatement. He pointed out that unless smoke is eliminated, the new group of city buildings to be erected within the next few years from bond issue funds "will become as smoke-begrimed as is the City Hall."

It would be as dirty again in six months as it is now," he stated.

The cost of smoke to St. Louis residents was pointed out by several speakers. Forrest Donnell, an attorney, asserting that $12,000 is spent daily here because of smoke.

"Smoke" Sits at Table.

"Smoke," a living personification of the evil, sat at the speakers' table until near the close of the meeting, when he was hissed from the table. His seat was taken by "Miss Sunshine," a 3-year-old girl bedecked in white.

"Smoke" described himself as an offspring of "Mother Earth" and "Father Ignorance." He declared his income here had been $19,000, 000 annually, but voiced a fear that it is soon to be lessened.

Other speakers at the meeting included Harold M. Blaby, president of the Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the Advance Gifts Committee; E. B. Langenberg, general chairman of the campaign; Director of Public Safety Brod; Earl Ormsby, chairman of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League; Luther Ely Smith, an attorney and head of the educational department of the league; Mrs. James E. BANKER ASSAILS EXTRAVAGANCE OF YOUNG AND OLD Ignoring of Dropped Pennies, Nickels and Dimes Bad Policy, W. R. Morehouse Tells Conference.

The American people are becoming more and more reckless with their money, declared W. R. Morehouse of Los Angeles, president of the American Bankers' Association, in an address at the opening session of the two-day Midwest Regional Savings Conference at Hotel Statler today.

"It isn't so much the high cost of living in these days as it is the lack of appreciation of the value of minor coins," Morehouse told his audience of bankers.

He said that he had seen a man on the sidewalk who almost hesitated to pick it up. If you drop a nickel or a dime in your office, you are tempted to remark, "Oh, let the janitor get it."

"Young America is being reared in this environment which borders on extravagance. Our children are demanding liberal allowances for their school expenses; instead of taking lunch to school, as was the custom 25 years ago, the children today insist on an allowance of at least 50 cents a day."

World Encourage Saving.

To offset the tendency toward extravagance in children, Morehouse urged the bankers to encourage children's accounts and welcome the deposits of pennies and nickels. He declared stock salesmen and promoters were getting too many of the savings accounts with promises of high returns and assailed installment buying insofar as it encourages the purchase of luxuries, instead of necessities.

Morehouse warned the bankers that they were losing their savings depositors to wildcat promoters who had been in the banks for principal hunting ground. He declared it was the banker's duty to himself and to his depositors, to guard against crooked manipulators by urging their depositors to make safe investments even at the expense of reducing savings deposits.

"Many banks today," he asserted, "are helping savers to build up good balances and then turning them loose to become the prey of crooked promoters."

One C. Stephenson, president of the St. Joseph Loan & Trust Co., South Bend, Ind., urged that more banks establish bond departments so that proper investments may be recommended to savers.

He told of two cases in which bank patrons made bad investments through outside influences. Their money was recovered by volunteer services of bank officials.

Belief that a new day is dawning in the savings field was expressed by Noble E. Jones, savings manager of the First National Bank in St. Louis, who called attention to the fact that the per capita savings of the Middle West are only $125 as compared with $500 for the New England states. This condition, he said, is due to the state of development of the respective territories. He urged good advertising to bring in business.

Other Speakers on Program.

Other speakers on the program today were John W. Ruben, assistant manager of the Illinois Merchants' Trust Co., Chicago, "Methods of Procuring New Business"; Gaylord F. Morse, assistant cashier, State Bank, Chicago, "Building Savings Balances"; Arthur R. Cooney, assistant vice president, Trust Bank of Chicago, "Organizing and Building a Savings Department"; C. B. Mudd, cashier, First National Bank, St. Charles, Mo., "The Value of Savings to the Community"; F. S. Wetack, First National Bank, Coffeyville, Kan., "The Dilemma of Thrift."

At a banquet tonight, Fred N. Shepard, executive manager of the American Bankers' Association, will speak on "A National Anti-Branch Bank Policy." Tomorrow's list of speakers includes W. S. Webb, president, Missouri Savings Assn. Bank, Kansas City; Stephen C. Thornling, savings manager, First National Bank, Kansas City; Paul S. Abt, vice president, Southern Illinois National Bank, East St. Louis; Mrs. L. D. Sullivan, savings manager, Mercantile Trust Co., St. Louis; Fred W. Ellsworth, vice president, Hibernia Bank and Trust Co., New Orleans; E. E. McCleosh, president, Williams, E. & Co., Chicago; Charles H. Wetters, assistant vice president, American National Bank, Nashville, Tenn.; H. W. Riel, manager, Better Business Bureau, St. Louis; and W. Esney Albright, deputy manager, American Bankers' Association.

COMPANY

Advertising MUST Reduce Cost!

In many industries, prices have been falling and margins have been steadily growing narrower.

Economists believe that this downward drift will continue for some years. Yet, the wage earners' purchasing power continues high, and volume sales are easy to get.

If this describes your situation, it is obvious that advertising can not be of great value to you if it is merely a volume producer—or if it brings only intangible effects such as prestige or consumer acceptance.

Advertising, to be useful today, must reduce sales cost. It must have a direct bearing on extracting more net profit out of less margin.

This calls for a new advertising strategy—a greater knowledge of how to employ advertising, not as a force by itself, but as part of a program to produce more net profit.

The particular contribution which this company has made in the service of its clients is to so focus their advertising that it becomes a major instead of a minor factor in profit making. This does not mean in most instances that we invent or discover some new, unheard-of sales idea or merchandising plan.

On the contrary, it usually means only that the basic need of the business is so clarified and emphasized and focused upon, not only in the advertising, but throughout all the sales work, that new volume of the most profitable character results.

May we not show you examples of the new advertising procedure in an interview?

Four Men Accused of Operat-

Unable to Collect $426.

Two white men and two Negroes are charged in warrants issued yes-policy game," which Detective

Sergeant Mulcahy of the gambling squad says is the largest lottery in St. Louis.

The defendants are Bert Cassery, 57 years old, of 24 Lewis place;

his nephew, Ray Casery, 27, of 4451 Olive street; Harold Wheeler,

Negro, of 4422 West Belle place, and Vergil Bailey Negro 2720 Wal-

Saturday on complaint of James

Merrill, Negro chauffeur, of 5538

Waterman avenue, a customer of the lottery.

Merrill told the police he had won $426.40 on tickets he purchased from Wheeler. He couldn't collect, and Wheeler sent Bailey to see him. Bailey took him to his home, where Merrill met Ray Cassery, according to the Negro's story. Ray Casery said "I'll have to see Bert about this." Merrill told Sergeant Mulcahy. Later Cassery paid him $75.40 for his claim and said "That's all you can get."

Merrill accepted the money and then went to Sergeant Mulcahy.

STUDENT SUICIDES FEWER THAN USUAL

Prominence of Some of Them Created Illusion of "Epidemic"—What Statistics Show.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 29.—Contemplation of suicide is a common thing among mentally active and nervously high-strung boys and girls when approaching maturity. The present series of suicides among college and high school students is not epidemic in any sense, according to the views of various authorities in the April issue of "Children, The Magazine for Parents." The number is low in comparison with the same periods of recent years, but nation-wide attention has been drawn to the condition because several of the suicides were connected with prominent families.

The remedy lies with parents, who must train themselves to a clearer understanding of the emotional storms through which boys and girls pass in their teens. Too many mothers and fathers go to extremes in dealing with their children, are tyrannical at one time, overindulgent the next, or perhaps selfishly indifferent. What youth needs from parents is firm, intelligent, trained sympathy, unselfish and courageous love and understanding.

Peak Reached in 1922.
Pointing to the findings of G. Stanley Hall that at least half the seniors in a New England college had seriously considered suicide, Mr. Hoch emphasized the point that adolescence is an age of extremes, of brilliant hopes and complete despair. "At that stage in his development, part of the youth still clings to the protection of home and the security of child life, while another part is beginning to respond to the lure of adventure and conquest which the world offers and to realize the responsibilities which await. It is in this conflict that the young person, particularly if he is highly attuned emotionally and without sound parental training and guidance, is driven to despair."

To prove that the winter's group of student suicides is not unusual, the survey conducted by "Children, The Magazine for Parents," quotes the statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. "Here," it says, "are a few surprising reassurances to be gained from bare facts: In 1919, 477 children under 20 took their lives. War hysteria, excessive prosperity, whatever the cause, the next three years show a rapid increase to 709 in 1920, to 858 in 1921, to 900 in 1922. The marked drop of 1923 shows only 449, and continues to the low level of 339 in 1926, the last recorded year."

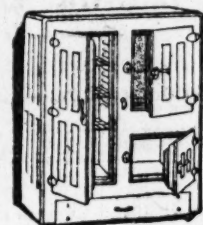

Seasons for Suicide.
"Even if youthful suicide should continue at the present rate of less than 20 in two months, the total for 1927 would still follow the downward trend. But there is no reason to think it will continue at even this rate. There is a well-known seasonal curve in the frequency of suicide. It seems likely that the frequency of youthful suicide follows the general trend. This mysterious and tragic cycle rises sharply beginning late in January, making three-fifths of its total yearly increase in the single short month of February, and reaching its peak in May. It drops rapidly to a minimum in August and remains low the rest of the year. It looks as if 1927 were running true to form."

The survey lays special stress on the observation of Dr. Thomas D. Wood that while students have committed suicide, working boys and girls have not. Dr. Wood sees the danger not in schooling itself, but in the lack of personal responsibility, the egotism, often the result of babying on the part of fond but misguided parents. It is not necessary for all boys and girls to earn money, but not one of them should be denied the privilege of responsibility, of taking thought for himself and for others too."

How Parents Can Help.
Many psychiatrists, the survey points out, "lay their final emphasis on the importance of training of parents to understand their children and themselves. Parents must understand better the conflicts and stresses through which every adolescent must pass if they are to get a new vision of their own roles as fathers and mothers, a role which should have in it nothing of tyranny, of clinging, of co-dling, or yet of selfish indifference, and everything of trained sympathy, of informed intelligence and of unselfish courageous love. "It takes all of that to develop boys and girls who are independent, who are strong enough to meet disappointment, who are sympathetic with others, who grow up seeing themselves not as lords of little egocentric worlds, but as links in the endless chain of life."

Acidophilus [not a drug] Ends Auto-Intoxication

UNLIKE laxatives, lubricants, medicines, yeast, bran, etc., which temporarily help to expel intestinal poisons and gas, Acidophilus acts to permanently prevent their formation. It is Nature's drug, less, harmless, non-habit creating method for ending the cause of most human ills.

Nature stocked your intestines in childhood with Acidophilus to keep your digestive tract healthy, active and safe, and your blood pure. Modern living, however, has reduced your Acidophilus supply. Paucifactorial germ—the creators of poison and gas in waste matter—have become the rulers. Conquer them by restoring your Acidophilus forces to normal. Then the ills of intestinal poisoning no longer can drag you down.

Now in Tasteless Tablets—Moyer's Milk has been the principal means of replenishing the body with this protection. Now a pleasant, new, convenient, rapid-acting and inexpensive form is ready—small, tasteless "Moyer's Tablets." They can be swallowed with or without water, or may be dissolved in water, milk, etc.

SISLER AND DIXON LEAD BROWNE ATTACK ON GIANT PITCHERS

GOSLIN'S TEXAS

Each Makes Four Hits; Wingard Settles Down After Bad First Inning

Southpaw Stewart Down to Face Mobile Club in Game Today
—Howley's Men Won Eight and Lost Five of Contests Played in Florida.

By John E. Wray
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MOBILE, Ala., March 29.—With a storm of base hits, which laid low two Giant pitchers and menaced a third, the Browns wound up their 1927 Florida campaign by smothering the McGrawless Giants at St. Augustine, 12 to 6. It was the heaviest hitting done by Dan Howley's men this season, 17 safeties being registered by the St. Louisans for a total of 24 bases.

George Riner led the heavy artillery with three doubles and a single in five times at bat, while Leo Dixon, in a surprising slugfest, likewise made four hits, one a double. The heaviest single blow of the game was struck by Pitcher Ernie Wingard, who slammed some lengthy home run to right field that the runner was not even winded in beating the slow return to the plate.

Strange to say, the heaviest hitter during the training camp season, Schulte, was not able to make one safety during the day.

As a result of yesterday's victory over the Giants, the Browns completed their engagement with big league clubs in Florida, having recorded an even break with the Giants, a 3-to-2 conquest of the Dodgers and a record of three victories and one defeat over the Cincinnati Reds. Throw in a victory over Buffalo and the Florida record of the Browns shows eight victories and five defeats. Not bad as compared with the figures against the other major league teams won in the South.

Manager Howley after the game expressed satisfaction with the work the team had done.

Team Will Be Heard From.

"The team is starting in great shape. Tom Zachary's sore too is the only ailment in the squad. The pitchers are nearly ready to go nine innings as Ernie Wingard proved against the Giants. My team has a wonderful spirit and we will be heard from this year unless we have accidents."

President Phil Ball also expressed his satisfaction with the team's condition and spirit.

One of the principal sources of congratulation is the fighting spirit of the men collectively and individually. Yesterday was an example. Wingard, although he started the game showing some wonderful hooks, had poor control and the first inning was on the bad side of the ledger three runs. Three walks and as many hits had put him "in Dutch" and it appeared that the Giants were all set for a walkover. But the Browns came right back to score three runs, tying the score, and they went on in the next inning, after having driven Pitcher Virgil Cheever out to pound Pitcher Henry, a left-hander, still harder. At the end of the third inning the Browns had a lead of five runs, due to the terrific pounding of the enemy hurlers.

Wingard Shows Gameness.

In addition to the team's ability to rally when behind, Wingard showed his gameness by regaining his form in the second inning and stopping the foe completely. He followed it up by pitching the entire nine innings splendidly. He allowed only six hits for the final eight innings and would not have been scored on again had not Gertie dabbled too long with a chance for a double play.

The game was complete revenge for the Browns, who lost the very first contest of their training camp campaign to the Giants by an overwhelming score.

Today at Mobile the Browns will send Walter Stewart against the Mobile team, the first of a series of minor league stands which will not close until the Browns return to St. Louis, April 8.

The Browns looked better in every way than the Giants, making one error to four for the opposition and using their heads like a big league club that is headed somewhere.

John McGraw was not with the team. He is reported to be scouting for players but the real fact seems to be that he is dodging process servers.

Lost Heavily in Land.

McGraw lost heavily in Florida lands, the total being $66,000, according to reports here. He himself is being sued by two persons for a total of $15,000, it is said.

In the meantime Rogers Hornsby, not Roger Bresnahan, is handling the club, giving the orders and naming the players each day. He is undoubtedly being groomed to succeed McGraw if he makes good.

Hornsby looks in great shape, weighing 175 pounds, whereas at the close of his championship campaign last year he scaled only 153 pounds. Hornsby likes his team well and says he has a great player in Ott. He thinks Heine Mueller will make the grade. Heine was in the game part of the day against the Browns.

O'Rourke is getting better at third base each day. The Browns haven't seen his equal on the far corner in some time.

Hahn, everywhere he goes, gets the glad hand from the fans. Nowhere has any other player on either team gained the applause of the crowd like Hahn. At St. Augustine he more than justified it.

AID a hold-out named Alger non Beggs:

"A guy's just as young as his legs;

While the cheers of the crowd Make him happy and proud

It gets him no bacon and eggs.

"The players some people may claim,

Should play more for glory and fame;

But they can't pay their bills With yesterday's thrills.

When they're getting too old for the game!"

Lincoln Team Scores 71 Points On Mountaineers

Nebraska Five Runs Up Highest Score Ever Made in Tourney Against Alpine, Neb.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Against five high school boys from the hills of Alpine, Tenn., the red-class basketball team of Lincoln (Neb.) High today compiled the largest score ever run up at the University of Chicago National High School basketball tournament.

Lincoln won, 71 to 9. Their victory stamped the Cornhuskers as the outstanding team to reveal itself in the early games of the play for the interscholastic title.

Other teams, to come through in the first games were Safford, Ariz., and London, Ky. Safford won from Franklin, N. J., 30 to 20, and Muscatine, Ia's entry fell to London, 15 to 12, in game slow and ragged in spots.

Officials of the tournament said never in the nine-years of play for the scholastic cage crown had a team run up 71 points against a foe, and that probably no individual ever had compiled as large a score in a tournament contest here.

When a ball cleared the park fence and landed on property owned by the Pedens he went after it. Boyd Peden is said to have encountered Allen as the player picked up the ball and demanded it.

When Allen refused to surrender it, the two clashed. Peden's father, who had just come up, joining the fight. Other players went to Allen's rescue and on separating the three boys.

Knives were found in the possession of both the Pedens and they were arrested.

Tippet concluded negotiations yesterday for two other preliminary attractions, booking Norman Travels, a Belleville, middleweight, to meet Harry Doyle, of this city, and signing Floyd "Kid" Clarke of Belleville for a junior lightweight set to with Casey Jones of St. Louis.

All four engagements are billed to go four rounds.

SUNNINGDALE, England, March 29.

BOBBY JONES of Atlanta, Ga., who won the British open golf championship last year, has been elected an honorary life member of the Sunningdale Golf Club.

It was over the Sunningdale links last year that he created a course record of 66-68—134 for 36 holes. British golfers were amazed over this performance.

JERSEY CITY HURLER'S LUNG IS PUNCTURED BY A STAB WOUND

By the Associated Press.

CLARENCE ALLEN, a recruit pitcher with the Jersey City International League club, is in City Hospital suffering from knife wounds sustained during an encounter with J. R. and Boyd Peden, father and son, outside the baseball park here yesterday.

Physicians said his condition was serious. He probably sustained a puncture of one lung, they added, and lacerations about the body.

Allen, whose home is in Anderson, S. C., was chasing flies in the outfield in practice before a game between Jersey City and Greenville.

When a ball cleared the park fence and landed on property owned by the Pedens he went after it. Boyd Peden is said to have encountered Allen as the player picked up the ball and demanded it.

Hockey Series to Start Tonight

Elimination Games Scheduled to Be Played in New York City and Montreal.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Four of the six teams to win play-off berths during the National Hockey League season will start tonight on the annual quest for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world professional championship.

Two games are scheduled in widely separated sections of the circuit. The Chicago Black Hawks meet the Boston Bruins here in the first of a two-game series to determine an opponent for the New York Rangers in the American sectional final. Montreal Canadiens oppose their local rivals, the Maroons, in the first game of a similar Canadian series for the right to face Ottawa Senators in the final of the international group.

Triumph for the "Flying Frenchmen" over the Maroons is forecast on the record of season conflicts between the two teams. Canadians won five of six battles, scoring 12 goals to Maroons' four. Four of the Canadian victories were shutouts.

In the American section Boston met Chicago six times, winning three, losing two and drawing one. The Black Hawks, leading scorers of the league, counted 10 goals to 14 for the Bruins.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

MORE PUBLIC GOLF COURSES RECOMMENDED BY COOK COUNTY BOARD
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 29.—Better greens and more public golf courses were decided upon yesterday by the Cook County (Chicago) Board of Commissioners in their first meeting with their new golf architect, Chick Evans, once holder of many golf titles.

Extension of the plan of permitting local groups to build and operate courses in the public forest preserve under lease was recommended by Evans.

Two such courses, run on a daily fee basis, are now operated and Evans recommended that the county take them over when the leases expire, besides making liberal offers of support to other groups who wish to open up courses.

The forest preserve of natural woodland which almost encircles the city in its westward fringe, would well sustain 50 more courses, Evans said.

COBB MUST PAY $100 FOR ARGUMENT WITH UMPIRE WILSON
By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 29.—Cobb must pay $100 for his part in an argument recently with Umpire Frank Wilson of the National League, which resulted in a forfeited game, K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, announced here today.

Cobb and Wilson were old enemies when Cobb was pilot of the Detroit Tigers and Wilson was umpiring in the American League. Wilson is with the National League now, and when he was selected to umpire a game in Florida recently between the Boston Braves and the Athletics, Cobb refused to take his regular place in the Philadelphia outfield. His remarks from the bench caused an argument which finally resulted in a forfeiture by the Athletics. No fine was levied against the club.

CANZONERI MATCHED WITH CHICK SUGGS
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 29.—A return match with Bud Taylor of Terre Haute for the bantamweight championship was promised by Tony Canzoneri and his manager before they left today for their home in New York. Manager Sam Goldman said he would send back the signed contract as soon as he got home.

Another Canzoneri match was also arranged, for the little New Yorker to meet "Chick" Suggs here April 3. Taylor and Abe Attell, Goldstein will go 10 rounds on the same card. Taylor blamed a mistake in his own judgment for the failure to defeat Canzoneri, although he had no criticism of the draw decision.

"I was laying back preparing to wait Canzoneri in the fifth and sixth rounds," Taylor said, "and he didn't do the things I figured he would. He is a great fighter and has a pip a right hand."

Canton Five Goes To Fourth Place

Timkens Count 1103 for High Single Game in A. B. C. Tourney.

PEORIA, Ill., March 29.—By staging a remarkably strong finish, the Timkens of Canton, O., went into fourth place in the five-man event last night on the late shift of the American Bowling Congress.

The Timkens began slowly, getting only 919 pins, but came back with a 975 and 1103 series, the first of the tourney, for a total of 2997. Only one other entry reached the topmost circle yesterday, Kraft and Farum of Fort Wayne shooting into sixth place in the doubles with a count of 1281.

Headed by Gov. Len Small, 16 Springfield (Ill.) five-man teams will invade the alleys tonight. The governor is scheduled to roll the first ball this evening. Other teams who will appear here today include contingents from Belleville, Ill., East St. Louis, Davenport, Rock Island, Moline, Clinton, Ia., Milwaukee and Terre Haute, Ind.

CANADIAN AMATEUR HOCKEY TITLE AT STAKE

By the Associated Press.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 29.—Prospects of a four-game series to decide the senior amateur hockey championship of Canada increased interest today following the 3 to 2 victory of the Fort William (Ontario) team over the Toronto Gradenats in the second game of the Allan Cup series last night.

The first game ended in a 2-3 tie. The third will be played here Wednesday night. If the Fort William team wins it will take the title. Otherwise, a fourth contest will be played.

Lots of Beer, Some Wine and Champagne for British Crews

Oxford and Cambridge Brew Their Own From Age-Old Recipes; Jazz Music and Draw Poker Add American Touch.

By the Associated Press.
PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, March 29.—Beer, wine and champagne are on the training menus of the Oxford and Cambridge boat race crews who are winding up their training for the seventy-ninth annual English university river classic on Saturday.

Beer is an important item in the training of English oarsmen. The non-arrival of barrels of special brew from Cambridge when the light blue crew came to Putney early this month was taken as an omen of ill luck, and gloom pervaded the Cambridge camp until the beer arrived.

English colleges brew their own special beer from recipes handed down from generation to generation. The oarsmen take wines sparingly, only a small glass of port each night.

The daily training routine of the Oxford crew is: Rise at 7 a. m., milk and dry biscuits. A cross-country run and breakfast at 8, consisting of tea, fish, eggs and toast. An hour's work on the Thames from 10 to 11. Lunch at 1 o'clock, cold meats and some beer. More rowing practice in the afternoon, tea at 5 o'clock, and a good dinner at 7, with more beer. Lights out at 10 o'clock.

America's contributions to modern English crew training are jazz and draw poker, the latter being the favorite indoor sport of the oarsmen during dull hours.

INTERCLUB BOUTS WILL FEATURE AT AMATEUR SHOW TONIGHT

DURSO TO BOX MAZER IN ONE OF "SPECIALS"

Winner Will Get Match With Doetzel, District Champion — Wood and Meyer Down to Battle.

Leading flyweight and light-weight championship contenders of the Western A. A. U. district are paired for the interclub specials of the amateur boxing tournament to be conducted under the auspices of the People's Motorbus A. C. at the new St. Louis University Gymnasium tonight. The tournament also attracted a field of 26 candidates for pairings in the open events.

Carmen Durso of the South Broadway A. C. meets Mickey Mazer of the Motorbus team in the flyweight special. Tournament officials plan to offer Cliff Doetzel, the district titleholder, a match with the winner. Durso earned a point verdict over Doetzel about two months ago, but lost the decision in the final of the annual district tournament. Mazer is a former champion.

The lightweight feature will bring together Reggie Wood of the Motorbus team and Al Meyer of the South Broadway Club in a return match. Wood shaded Meyer in one of the star bouts of last week's glove carnival at the South Broadway. The Motorbus lightweight star was a finalist in the district tournament last month and he reached the semifinals of the national junior championships at Cincinnati.

School to Box McKay. Bud Schlot and George McKay, South Side middleweights, who fought an interesting bout last week at the South Broadway club, are booked for a return bout. Schlot won a point verdict in their last meeting.

Nine boxers of Class A rating, including Jerry Hoffman and Pete White, Western district champions, are numbered among the preliminary candidates. Officials of the Motorbus club hope to match Hoffman with George Gallagher for a special bout. Harry Sharpe will referee, while Circuit Judge Robert W. Hall and

WRAY'S COLUMN

They Like the Browns.

MOBILE, Ala., March 29. BASEBALL men continue to express favorable views of the Browns. Due to the spirit of the team displays. At St. Petersburg, after the game with the Braves recently, Boston players and officials congratulated the management on the "pep" and fight shown by the men.

The Boston scribbles commented that it was the smartest and best ball team that had appeared at St. Petersburg.

That doesn't win ball games, even in spring training camps. But it at least satisfies Owner Ball that he made no mistake when he signed Dan Howley to a three-year contract as manager.

Where Will Browns Finish? "NOT seventh," was the unanimous answer of everyone connected with the club, when the above question was put to them.

Some optimists figure that the team will land as high as fifth which means they will beat out the Red Sox, the White Sox and Detroit clubs.

The situation briefly is that no living person can be sure of anything about the Browns until the full strength of the infield and pitching staff is established. That will certainly not be until some weeks after the season is opened. Just now, it appears that the team will get fair pitching. But spring training form is ever misleading. The team is showing a world of dash and fight, is hitting fairly well, playing good defensive baseball and is undoubtedly stronger than last year. But if the two main lines of defense, pitching and the infield do not stand the test, the club can go nowhere.

Seneca Taylor are slated to serve as judges of competition. The complete entry list follows:

On the other hand, with good hitting in both departments, coupled with had breaks by the fading Yankees and the aging Washington club, first division would be a possibility.

It can be said that the board of strategy of the Browns thinks the team will win at least a mild surprise, before the campaign is over.

That Legion Fight Bill.

FIGHT fans among the players here discussing the report that the Governor would sign the Missouri boxing bill, recently passed by both Houses, were wondering today just where it would land the fight game in St. Louis, if it were to become a law.

The prevailing opinion was that even though the law is not admissible, in some ways, it will be better than no law.

That depends entirely on whether a commission, made up of a man who will have no time to devote to the duties of chairmanship (namely the director of athletics at Missouri University) and of two assistants working without pay, can be expected to function satisfactorily.

It also depends upon the fitness of the regulations the commission will draw up and on the extent of the supervision exercised. One might infer in advance that the situation will not come through happily unless the commissioners are men of untiring devotion to the duties of the office independent of their own professional requirements.

The way is open to graft and mismanagement, as was pointed out before the bill was passed. Not only this, but in promotion features it seems to give a monopoly to certain organizations, excluding even clubs already in existence for athletic purposes solely.

The bill was not a strong one but since it is likely to be with us as a law, the State it should prove better than the "bootleg" brand of boxing, hitherto the only sort possible in Missouri.

A Queer Angle.

A PROVISION of the boxing bill is that the old statute making prize fighting a felony still stands.

It remains as another monument to folly since prize fighting, in the meaning of the old Missouri boxing statute, has not existed for more than 25 years.

Prize fighting, in its true sense, died when John L. Sullivan withdrew from bare-knuckle fighting and drew on the gloves. Prize fighting was conducted under the London prize ring rules and has been dead practically ever since these were abandoned.

The Missouri law against fighting and boxing, passed since 1873, contemplated the only known form of fighting of the day—bare-knuckle battles. Boxing was that form of fighting in which gloves were worn.

Thus the Missouri legislators are now providing a penalty against a condition which has been obsolete for more than a quarter of a century.

The last bare-knuckle fight for a world's championship was between Jake Kilrain and John L. Sullivan. The first glove fight for the title was between John L. Sullivan and James J. Corbett, in 1892.

That fight was the death knell of prize fighting, as construed by those who drew the law of 1873. If the legislators want to retain a penalty for prize fighting, they should incorporate in the law a definition of just what is meant by "prize fighting."

SLATTERY IS WINNER ON FOUL OVER RISK

By the Associated Press. BUFFALO, N. Y., March 29.—Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo was awarded the decision on a foul over Johnny Risko of Cleveland in the fifth round here last night.

The first foul blow was struck in the fourth round. Risko, who had been knocked down, regained his feet and was receiving a rain of blows at the ropes when he shot in a left that landed below the belt. The referee warned Risko. Again at the end of the fifth the Cleveland boxer was warned, but a hook in the sixth that was apparently low caused him to be disqualified. Slattery weighed 169½ and Risko 182½ pounds.

Bears to Play Concordia Nine In Game Friday

Helstein, St. Louis Boy, Beats Curtin, Who Stopped Kaiser

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 29. ST. LOUIS has had its revenge. Back in 1922, Johnny "Pee-wee" Kaiser had his brilliant career as a bantamweight abruptly interrupted when he was knocked out in the second round by Irish Johnny Curtin. It was a sad blow for St. Louis. Last night another St. Louis boy, Johnny Helstein, a graduate of the South Broadway A. C., where Kaiser learned his first boxing lesson, met this same Irish Johnny Curtin and handed him the finest licking of his career for six rounds. Curtin was so badly pummeled by the clever Helstein that the final bell was music to his ears. St. Louis has evened up an old score.

Many St. Louis Owned Dogs at Madison Track

Greyhound Racing Plant to Open Spring Meeting Tomorrow Night.

St. Louis is on the verge of acquiring additional honors in a new field of outdoor sports endeavor. Several of its citizens have gone in for greyhound racing on such a scale that the Mound City is becoming noted as a sports center all around the circuit of the International Greyhound Racing Association.

With the opening tomorrow night of the Madison Kennel Club's spring meeting, all of these St. Louisians have sent their racers here so the homefolk may witness their performances. It would be possible to assemble a high class field of St. Louis owned greyhounds and Racing Secretary Hayden is likely to try it after the races get under way.

The newest recruit is Henri de Bernard, who with Mrs. de Bernard, owns the Madison de Bernard, a modish shop, on Lindell boulevard. A former grand opera singer in Europe and with the Chicago and Boston companies in this country, de Bernard took a fancy to the greyhounds to the extent of investing $17,000 as a starter. He has only imported dogs and goes in for the best blood lines. His stars are Reigning Regent, Spalding Brutus, Spalding Bard, Spalding

CHICAGO MID-WEST LEAGUE MAY NOT ACCEPT BUCK WEAVER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 29.—The fate of Buck Weaver, who has signed to play baseball for a Chicago semipro team, remained uncertain today following the failure of officials of the Chicago Midwest Baseball League to pass on his case at their pre-season meeting here yesterday. Weaver, banished from organized baseball following the world series scandal of 1919, was signed by the Niesen club, a member of the Midwest semipro league. Officials of the latter organization are anxious to remain within the good graces of Judge Landis; privately they are said to favor giving Weaver another chance.

Action was postponed until next week when another meeting will be held.

K. E. Rebeschied is another local greyhound fancier. He prefers the Irish greyhound and has been successful with Motor Speed, Third Tippi, Neath Brough and others. His sons train the racers.

Joe Milton and Willie Molasky, interested in a St. Louis news agency, made a trip abroad to buy greyhounds and returned with some good ones.

Others who own and race dogs on the International circuit and who are here for the Madison meeting include James A. Corbett, Clarence Baum and Jewell Kelly.

Neutral Referee Will Be in Charge of Miller-Sparta Game Here Sunday.

When the Ben Millers, Louis survivors in the national soccer championship series, take the field against the Sparta P. C. of Chicago in a Western semifinal at St. Louis U. Park Sunday, a neutral referee will be in charge of hostilities. This was learned yesterday when Winton E. Barker, president of the St. Louis league, received word from national headquarters that Dave Evans of Detroit had been selected to handle the contest. "Ribby" Murphy and John Cockdock, local referees, will act as line-men.

Efforts are being made by the Miller management to bring Joe Hennessy, star forward, back here for the game. Hennessy has been at the Knoxville (Tenn.) baseball team, managed by Bob Coleman. But Connie Will Have the Final Say, Even With Gleason, Cobb, Collins and Wheat Around.

By John B. Foster. (Copyright, 1927.)
FORT MYERS, Fla., March 29. The Philadelphia Athletics are one of the most fascinating studies ever put together in baseball. A like bucket of managerial brains never was assembled before. Barker and his Jumbo never did anything greater in their way than Connie Mack has done with the Athletics.

When you look closely at that golden-visaged gentleman, meaning Connie—and catch the lurking smile at the corner of his mouth, you wonder if he is not the best manager in baseball, despite the fact that he can sit on a lighted bench without becoming excited.

First, there is Connie himself. He is manager No. 1. Then comes Kid Gleason, former manager of the White Sox, who may be designated as No. 2. Next is Gus Raymond, Cobb, former manager of Detroit, who is No. 3. Following him is Eddie Collins, former White Sox manager, No. 4. Now with the Athletics. For No. 5 there is Zack Wheat, once of Brooklyn, who was named manager by Uncle Wilbert Robinson. Through Robby took back his job less than two weeks.

Other members of the team may be managers some day. They ever will have a better chance to show practical managerial brain work displayed under their very noses.

Perhaps the old slow up before the but given what it is Myers the team will anything ever put American League than a 50-50 proposition. If physical defects as Se-nigh, don't overlord the Athletics have substitutes for the others in charge and generally supervises the boys on and off the field. Kid is a master hand at that life.

Is "YELLOW MAN" your teeth's foe?

DO your teeth have a dingy, yellowish tinge? They should be a pearly white—because that is enamel's natural color. Then why, you ask, do mine have that yellowish cast despite daily brushing? Because of a "liquid cement" in your saliva. This is called Calculus. It glues to your teeth—then hardens into a glassy mask. It completely veils the lustrous enamel. And worse, it is absorbent... drinks in coffee, food and tobacco stains like a blotter absorbs ink. These discolor it—give it that yellowish tinge. Ordinary dentifrices cannot dislodge it. Only one thing can—a peculiar substance known as "Tri-Calcium Phosphate." Your dentist uses it to clean teeth. It makes a tooth Yet it cannot soften enamel. Now, for the first science gives you a wonderful "Tri-Calcium Phosphate" in a tooth paste. To sure and positive move that yellow gain glorious. You can quote me on this-

P. A. MAKES the grandest home-rolled cigarette that ever saw the light of a match! Just read that again and take it for all wool and a yard wide. Why, the very fragrance of the tobacco itself is advance notice that you're in for some glorious smoke-sessions.

And when you roll one and light up, you'll agree that the aroma was no false prophet. The very first puff is a pleasure you never met before in the home-rolled line... a pleasure that repeats itself with every wonderful intake. I'm talking about Prince Albert, Men.

So cool and refreshing, so mild and mellow, yet with that full, rich tobacco body that satisfies to the full. You'll roll 'em and smoke 'em the live-long day. You'll enjoy every one as you never enjoyed any home-made cigarette before. Get some P. A. and see.

All that I've said about Prince Albert for cigarettes goes for pipes as well. P. A. can take the balkiest pipe and give it a sweet disposition on the very first fire-up. Men who were once pipe-shy are now jimmy-pipe regulars. No two ways about it, P. A. is great tobacco.

P. A. is sold everywhere. And shown with every bit of bias and prejudice removed by the Prince Albert process.

Evans, Detroit Official, Will Handle Cup Tilt

Neutral Referee Will Be in Charge of Miller-Sparta Game Here Sunday.

When the Ben Millers, lone St. Louis survivors in the national soccer championship series, take the field against the Sparta F. C. of Chicago in a Western semifinal at St. Louis U. Park Sunday, a neutral referee will be in charge of hostilities. This was learned yesterday when Winton E. Barker, president of the St. Louis league, received word from national headquarters that Dave Evans of Detroit has been selected to handle the contest. "Ribby" Murphy and John Cardock, local referees, will act as linesmen.

Efforts are being made by the Miller management to bring Joe Hennessy, star forward, back here for the game. Hennessy has joined the Knoxville (Tenn.) baseball team, managed by Bob Coleman. If he is unable to get here, the St. Louis team's forward wall will be weakened for the struggle, despite the fact that Benny Nash has returned to the lineup.

Mickey O'Neil Is Bought Outright by Washington

St. Louis Boy, Brooklyn Backstop, Will Help Bolster Senators' Catching Staff; Glenn Wright Returns to Pittsburgh Lineup; Luque's Family Difficulties Settled.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 29.—Mickey O'Neil has been purchased outright from the Brooklyn Robins to bolster the catching department of the Senators, while Pitchers Curley Ogden and Leo Mangum have been sold to the Buffalo club in the International League without any strings attached.

The acquisition of O'Neil has overshadowed other events of the moment at the Tampa (Fla.) training camp. He is a catcher of experience and served with the New York Giants and the Boston Braves before joining the Robins.

Tris Speaker and Sam Rice are recovering from injuries, but Myer now is confined to his bed with a high fever.

Hornsby Will Not Cut Price Of Card Stock

Says He Will Not Surrender It for Penny Less Than $105 a Share.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOBILE, Ala., March 29.—Rogers Hornsby will have the letter of his bond. In an interview at St. Augustine, Fla., yesterday, Hornsby told the writer that he intended to get the full price of $105 a share for his 1169 shares of Cardinal club baseball stock and not one penny less, before he would surrender it.

Represents His Earnings. "I have received several offers for the stock, ranging from $50 to $80 a share, but I would not accept it. The stock is mine. It represents everything I have to show for 12 years of service with the Cardinals and also it stands for my reward for lifting the Cardinals from last place in 1925 to the world's championship in 1926, winning the same players that Branch Rickey failed with."

"I know that stock is worth $150 by the books. We audited them. Sam Breadon himself refused an offer of $135 a share for all his stock from us and said he would not sell for $200 a share. That makes my offer just $25 a share less than his."

"I stand for my original demand of $105. If the league insists that I sell for less I will decline. If the league suspends me and refuses to let me earn my living, I shall expect the New York club to pay my contract in full. If at the end of that contract, I am barred from playing I will again seek redress in court. I will only do this

REINHIMER STARS IN RAILROAD PIN EVENT

W. Reinheimer and J. Kinworthy: members of the Auditing team of the Frisco Railroad, won the doubles championship of the annual interstate railroad men's tournament, which wound up at the Washington alleys last night.

Reinheimer was the big star with a count of 628, while Kinworthy chalked up 553 pins as his share. The winners received 108 pins handicap. V. I. Nettleton of the Missouri Pacific displayed some real bowling to take the individual championship, rolling 645 scratch and receiving 75 pins handicap for the good mark of 720 pins.

W. Reinheimer, who shared high doubles honors, also gained the all as a last resort understand. I think the best way to do is to settle things amicably. But baseball cannot deny me my right to earn a living.

No Rule on the Books. "There is no baseball law that says a player shall not own stock in one club and play with another. I realize it is not ethical, but I am the victim of a peculiar situation. There never was one like it before. If the league thinks its principles are being jeopardized, it can come to the rescue and help make up the difference."

"President Heydler, if he wants his ultimatum to stand, should bring to bear influence on the St. Louis club to help out. The league might bear its part. In any case, I am going to either hold my stock or receive full pay for my shares."

"They can split the difference among them if they want to but I feel entitled to all of mine. The stock stands for payment for my unpaid services as manager of the Cardinals for two years. I am entitled to it and not to be squeezed just because Breadon has the upper hand."

"I will be ready to play on April 12, stock or no stock. I can't see how legally I can be prevented, without the clubs and the league rendering themselves liable to a law suit."

"In the meantime my affairs are in the hands of William Fahey, my St. Louis attorney, and I am not allowing the situation to bother my preparation of myself or my team for the season's work."

The Case for Life

There are not so many girls as there are young men who are being washed away from the shores of life. By what the newspapers call the "wave of youthful suicides." Nevertheless, there are girls' names in that tragic company. And there are other girls, we know, reading about those of their generation who refuse to go on with life. There are girls who, reading, wonder if they will ever feel like that. If life and its problems really are so unsolvable. What can one say to the youngsters, without preaching? (Right or wrong, most preaching gets nowhere.) With most young persons today, how can a woman, young enough to sympathize with youth, and old enough to be a little sorry for it, HOW can she prove to youth that life is worth living? Perhaps she cannot. But this is how she would try: The most sensible reason for holding fast to life, when you are young—No matter how unhappy you are, or how you suffer—Is because so much time for thrilling and beautiful and happy things lies ahead! If you would only try to conquer that oppressive sense of finality which shuts in like a fog on the late teens and early twenties! You think that what makes you wretched will never change—That because he doesn't love you NOW, this INSTANT, He NEVER will. Or you imagine, because you didn't "make" the club, That for at least ninety-nine years to come your college acquaintances will look at you down their noses. Or you are convinced, because you've flunked, or got into debt, That you can never be anything but an intellectual or moral weakling. Or, because you have lost the faith in which you were brought up, You are positive that you must travel through the world without stars or compass. Won't you, can't you grasp the fact That not only may the persons and the dilemmas, which torture you, change—But YOU may change in your feeling about them? In love, in social relationships, in personal accomplishment. The most glorious bits of luck may lie just around the corner for you. Because you cannot marry him today. Because all reason and circumstance seem against it—Is no proof that the same obstacles may exist tomorrow? A waiting game with fate is a hard one to play. But often, at long last, the plucky, persistent player wins! Not all the happy endings are confined to best sellers. They may not be literature, but they are sometimes life! You can function as a social being at college. And as a social success, when you're left behind you—So successful that the very persons who once ignored you Ask you to speak at their reunions—And then it's you who can turn them down. (Unless you're a forgiving soul!) Really, that's more fun than dying. Because nobody loves you! You can have more money and more sense! If you'll use your will power to live intelligently. Instead of to die desperately. So much for the change in unhappy circumstances. The changes in YOU are quite as likely. If you'll only hang on—If, instead of giving up, you'll give time a chance. You know how the physical self renews itself every seven years—The desires, the dreams, the despair of most persons change more swiftly and frequently. If, at sixteen or twenty-one, you can't believe this, Won't you take it on trust for a year or two. Won't you wait—and SEE? Yes, we know we haven't spoken of the last tragic group of self-slain. The thoughtful, doubtful young men and women Who are not disappointed in any definite love or ambition. But who—as the father of one of them put it—See no reason in life and therefore see no reason for life. We can tell you of three things Which compensate, in our own experience, for life's pain and loneliness and puzzle. While you are alive You can love. You can work. You can know the beauty of the outdoor world. Maybe you will not be loved in return. But that's not nearly as important as loving. And nobody can stop you from devoting your thoughts and imagination and emotion To the person whom you love and admire most. Maybe some of your work is not what you like to do best. But you can't "chick" from do-

D'Annunzio Replies to Tirade Against Women by Mussolini

By GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO.
(In an exclusive interview with Felice Ratto, the noted Swiss-Italian journalist and poet.)

WOMAN: The weaker sex? No. She laughs at her grandfather's ideal of beauty for the woman—the narrow chest, stooping shoulder, "swanlike neck" and pale, narrow face. She seeks health, for health is beauty. Her chest is broad, her shoulders erect, her neck sturdy, surmounted with a head that is vigorous. She has acquired brains. Her eyes are more apart, her eyebrows no longer "brow curved," but horizontal. She is truthful and trusts not to her wiles for acquisition, but relies on her abilities. She ignores false modesty but has a stronger character than her grandmother, from whom was extracted the condition "obey." Her respect for her man is not the respect of the slave for the master, which is born of fear, but the respect of an equal. Equals only can have true respect for each other. That is the twentieth century woman.

Equal of Man. Man! Receive her as your equal, enter into partnership with her as your equal, and you shall be great. Despire her, attempt to rectify her, reinslave her, and thy doom is certain. No nation that built its foundation solely on material force or physical prowess has been able to endure nature's depredations. No nation that, in the course of its evolution, ignores feminine cooperation, co-ordination and sympathy will long survive. No man who attempts to build his career on masculine attributes alone will aspire to the fullness of glory. No genius who has scorned the tender spiritual relations of a woman has reached the zenith of glory. Time has revealed the value of ing it as swiftly and as perfectly as possible. And some way, somehow, you can make a little time. To do the thing you love doing for its own sake. Finally, even if you believe in no other world, You have to believe in the beauty of this one—The deep shining of its sky. The pageant of its dawns and sunsets. The restless loveliness of its seas. The color and scent and softness of its tulips and pines and green grass. The rushing exhilaration of its cool winds. Oh, it is an outdoor world too exquisite to leave Before you must—No matter what sorrow the human beings in it and your own somber thoughts bring to you. It was one great English poet who put into the mouth of another This exultation in the world we know: "I find earth not gray but rosy. Heaven not grim but fair of hue. 'Do I stoop? I pluck a posy. 'Do I stand and stare? All's blue.' Love and work and nature—You can prove them true, if you live to make the proof—And they are reason enough For life.

(Copyright, 1927.)

BENITO MUSSOLINI, the Italian dictator, declared recently in an interview printed in the Daily Magazine of the Post-Dispatch, that women should not be taken seriously, that they have no real talent, no abilities and no worthy ambitions. Now Gabriele D'Annunzio, Italian poet and soldier, comes to the defense of womankind, and his reply to the Premier is published herewith.

Woman in man's achievements. The past mistakes of nations, their failures, their degeneracy, and their ultimate deterioration and decay are directly attributable to those nations either totally ignoring feminine collaboration or their gross misappreciation of woman's divine gifts.

The Spirit of Rebellion. Man, through Nature's endowment of brute masculinity, arrogated life to himself and treated woman as his slave, source of pleasure, his toy, and at times the object of his admiration. But the twentieth century has awakened in the breast of woman a spirit of rebellion, a "feminine irreverence." It is the same impulse that inspires the remnants of a fallen nation to redeem itself from the yoke of its oppressor.

The twentieth century being a period of scientific reasoning, woman, with a single wave of her hand, has pushed behind the past's persistent reiteration that she is the weaker of the sexes, and therefore she must remain subject to masculine dominance.

She no longer goes to the oracle of the temple of superstition; nor does she apply to the statesman for advice. She has raised the immutable colors of science and insists that she is the first cousin of Joan of Arc.

She scorns the old who assert that she is the weaker sex. She retorts: True, physically I am the weaker sex, because nature has created me to bear children and has assigned me periods when I must abstain from physical exertion, while man has been left free from such incubation. Science tells that psychologically there is no division line between the brains of the man and the woman.

The Failure of Man. Before the advent of science the world was wholly dependent on masculine productivity. Today it is the brain which is the driving energy of creativeness. Masculine prowess has conquered, has appropriated the wealth and the domain of others. But it has never built or created. Its glory was built on conquests and lasted for a time on the spoils.

Overfeeding and Fatness in Babies

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

IF YOU are a mother you may some time reach the point where you just can't go on nursing your baby at the breast. This may be either in your own interest or the interest of the baby or both. There is no question that a mother who contracts a grave disease, such as tuberculosis, scarlatina or typhoid fever should stop nursing her child. In minor disorders, however, the position is different. In colds, influenza, certain disturbances of menstruation, etc., it may perhaps be necessary to take the baby off the breast for a day or two and draw the milk with a pump or by manipulation. It is, however, quite unnecessary under these circumstances to wean the child. The truth is that many mothers are too ready to find excuses for weaning their babies, and this is the real ground for this popular belief.

On the other hand, you may be one of those mothers who nurse their babies too much. It is, indeed, a common practice to overfeed infants and young children. This, often, is due to the wrong standard of physique set up by the advertisements of patent food, which often contain photographs of very fat babies. Mothers inevitably acquire the idea that this is the normal state to be aimed at, and they diet their baby to fatten it.

Nature, on the contrary, keeps her young hungry rather than replete, for repletion means torpor, lethargy and torpidity is dangerously near death. What a baby swallows is not important; the important thing is what happened to the food afterwards. Both the stomach and the bowels have a certain working capacity, and if this capacity is exceeded the processes of life, other than those of mere fattening, are not quickened but retarded.

An overfed baby goes to sleep like a box-constrictor, and when feeding time is due again the mother wakes the baby as she gives the baby her indulgence, and the mother blames the system that made her wake it for its food instead of blaming herself for giving it too much. It is comparatively easy to fatten a baby, and some patent foods are designed for this purpose, but the process is most dangerous and insidious. At this period of its life the baby does not want fat, but muscle, bone and blood. The criterion should be, firmness of flesh and not quantity, and activity is a surer sign of good health than weight.

More fattening often precedes rickets. That is because fat-making foods are not bone-making foods and rickets comes from a lack of the latter.

Many mothers get the overfeeding habit because baby has acquired the screaming habit. The baby screams and mother at once feeds it to quiet it. This is largely because there is a widespread belief that screaming may produce rupture. As a matter of fact, screaming will produce nothing more than sweets or smacks, according to the character of the nurse or parent. If a hernia is already there, screaming may bring it down. Thus it is that a rupture is sometimes the cause of screaming and should be looked for in every child who has screaming fits. It is very easy to put down all these things to naughtiness. The explanation is more generally to be found in the fact that had upbringing may teach the child that screaming for things is a good way to get things.

The treatment under these circumstances must follow moral lines, though the physical side should not be forgotten. In no case does the remedy lie in stuffing your baby up to the point of repletion, fatness and torpidity.

Woman is standing in the pulpits and pulpits to men—and bringing up daughters to themselves up to appeal to men's lowest instincts.

ALL IN A BABY'S LIFE

First Aid

By J. H. Striebel

Milton Work's Bridge Pointers

THE POINTER FOR TODAY IS: A business pass shows great strength, and a subsequent double made by the partner is a business double.

In these days the number of Business Passes made by the partners of Informative doubblers of one No Trump, is steadily on the increase. More and more it is appreciated that heavy penalties are obtainable by passing a double of one No Trump with strength, when facing a dependable doubler. The Business Pass transforms an Informative double into a business double. Such a pass (of a double of one No Trump) should never be made without at least three, and better still four, high cards divided between two suits at least.

When the Business Pass is made and the No Trump, sandwiched between two strong adversaries and with a partner who can be of little or no assistance, attempts to rescue himself from his awkward situation by bidding a suit, a repeated double by the original doubler is business in spite of the fact that his partner has not bid or doubled. The Business Pass is par excellence a strength-shower and any double is business when made by the partner of a player who has made a Business Pass.

For example: South one No Trump, West double, North pass, East pass (the Business Pass), South two Diamonds, West double. The first double by West was Informative, but the second was distinctly business and indicated that West was prepared to set South's Diamonds severely. South probably has jumped from the frying pan into the fire, and for East to treat West's second double as Informative and take it out would be most unfortunate—for East and West, but sweetly welcome to North and South.

I once saw a case in which a Dealer (South), with:
Sp: A-x-x H: A-x-x D: A-J-x-x C: x-x bid one No Trump. After West's Informative double had been business passed (if I may coin a new term) by East, South tried to escape via the two-Diamond route. West doubled a second time and the result was 420 for the double, which East properly read as business.

MAKE HIM

By Angelo Patri

Angelo Patri is just the principal of a New York grade school, but the late Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard, said Patri is doing more for common-school education than any other person in America. This school, a model in every respect, is a mecca for teachers from all parts of the country.

ROBERT, when you go out please take that pail of ashes and dump them on the garden porch and Robert with you. And set the pail under the back porch. Don't forget. I'll need the pail."

"Yes!" By and by mother went out and nearly fell over the pail of ashes. They sat on the last step of the back porch and Robert was no place to be seen. Mother sighed, emptied the pail herself, set it away and went on with her work. Aunt Emmeline sat rocking and sewing close to her elbow.

"What could I do?" He went away and left them there. "Make him. You can bet if he was mine he'd do it. I'd fix him. I'd make him."

Mother said no more. It was so easy for people to sit and rock and sew and say, "Make him." But how's one to make anybody do anything and who has the time to follow up a 10-year-old and make him from morning to night?

Children do not learn obedience by being made to do things. They learn by wanting to do them. It is perfectly useless to force a child to do something in the hope that it will teach him obedience. There is underlying all habits, and obedience is a habit, a law that never changes, never varies, never falters. It is the law and no teacher and no parent can avoid or alter it. It says very distinctly that what one does freely and happily with a sense of pleasure in the doing will be done again with pleasure and become a habit and what is practiced again and again with aversion and displeasure will become a settled aversion—the child will have a negative habit if forced to do something against his wish. You may hope that this is not so. You may storm and call it spoiling children. You may deny it and say you were brought up to the slogan of make him, but I must still tell you it is the law.

Then what are we to do with these children? Let them grow up as they wish, let them defy the law and the prophets? There is a course between. You can so set the stage, so direct the child that his desire and his duty will oftentimes meet. That requires more intelligence than a slap and a shout but it will bring the result that intelligence always brings.

Do not imagine that the quiet, suppressed child, is being made as you would wish. When you MAKE him you are only expressing your own behavior. He is going his own way underneath. It is better to empty the ashes yourself and wait for a more opportune time than to MAKE him. The occasion for forcing a mandate must be important indeed.

Preserving Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI

READING the lives of the women who have left their delicate fingerprints on the pages of time, we find that they were all more than mere beautiful women. They were women who KEPT their beauty.

Semiramis, Helen of Troy, Cleopatra, Madame de Pompadour, all began with mere youthful beauty, and were that beauty like a garment until they had become so renowned for it, that they have become beautiful pictures in memory. These superwomen, who swayed politics and Kings, never relaxed in the constant care of themselves. They held on to their charm by guarding their greatest asset, feminine loveliness, even to the end of their days.

So often young girls paint, powder, pick their brows and take all the care in the world before they marry, and then when they've married give up all their artifice and let go until there is little left of their charm. It's after they marry that they begin to need the effort to be beautiful rather than while they are still young and fresh. When she is young, gadding about, dancing half the night, living so much outdoors, and the very exuberance of youth, ever bubbling and on the go, a girl will tend to keep the muscles hard and firm. But when she marries, and her new duties tie her to the house, she should substitute the "daily dozen" for

Tuesday Evening.

TONIGHT is the night of the bridge club party and I am all dressed and waiting for Joan, and if we are late Joan will explain to the hostess that she never can make me arrive any place on time, but I am not getting any silver hairs worrying over what the hostess will think of me because I think the club is a bunch of nuts, and I never would have joined it myself, but Joan joined it for us without giving me a chance to say no, which is how wives get what they want.

When I came home this evening Joan said, "You should have had a haircut. Do you want the people at the bridge club to think you are a grizzly bear, or something that Ellis Island overlooked?" and I said, "I am perfectly willing for them to slam the door in my face if they do not think I fit in with their interior decorations," and Joan said, "Well, it can't be helped now. Hurry and take your bath and shave." I said, "Bath?" and Joan said, "Certainly—a bath." I said, "I took a bath last night," and she said, "I would be ashamed of myself if I were you. Mr. Stewart takes as many warm baths a week as you do, and besides he takes a cold one every morning," and I said, "It is not fair of you to blame this human mistake entirely on soap and water, because part of the fault is nature's."

Well, while Joan was dressing I took a bath, and I shaved and dressed and mended a letter for Joan and went down to get the janitor's daughter to stay with the baby, and I fixed the baby's next feeding, and now as soon as Joan puts on her dress and powders her face and reorganizes her mouth and fixes her hair for the second time, she will be ready and we can go. A woman always has to fix her hair twice because after she has done it the first time she puts a dress on over her head and musses it all up again, and yet they elect women Governors.

We are going to the party with Stewarts because they live across the hall, and we have got to take them in our car, and I would like to take a taxi and make that tightwad pay for it. He may have paid for something once, but it must have been when he was alone, and I guess if you waited for him to pay a taxi bill it would be $5 some for waiting at the rate of 10 cents for every four minutes.

the natural exercises that she has given up. A little care of the body, and a little care of the face will go a long way toward helping to hold the man a woman has chosen to entrust her life to.

"The middle-age spread," that bugaboo of most women reaching maturity, should never be allowed to haunt the thoughtful woman. Surplus fat gathers quickly under muscles allowed to become flabby through disuse. Keep the body firm and taut by regular exercises, repeating the same ones each day as you discover new ones. Do not overwork the muscles one day for fear you will not want to go through the exercises again for several days running, and then give them a sudden dose of overwork to make up for time lost. This will never get you anywhere at all. You've merely tired yourself out so that you will not want to go through the exercises again the next day. Do just so much a day, and use regularly, increasing gently without feeling the effort, so that the care of your body becomes a pleasure to you instead of a bore. Above all, remember to start in time. The muscles have been allowed to sag, it is twice as hard to get them back to their normal elasticity as it is to keep them doing their duty from the start.

Shrimp Toast.

Open a can of shrimp, drain and remove the liquid. Put in a little saucepan the beaten yolks of two eggs, a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce and a tablespoonful of cream. Heat and as it begins to thicken dip into it six rounds of buttered toast and turn over the little sauce left, heat a moment or two in the oven and serve. Garnish with parsley.

THE RAGGED EDGE

A NEW STORY OF LOVE, ADVENTURE AND MYSTERY

by HENRY C.
ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Carillon Boyd unceremoniously visits Bengal Dodd by swimming from her brother's yacht, the Rigel, to the Gunga. Both yachts are anchored in the harbor at Hamilton, Bermuda. The Rigel is about to sail around the world on a semi-scientific expedition, and Carillon asks Dodd to tag along after the Rigel. Obtaining Boyd's consent, Dodd asks Jim Howland and his daughter, Gertrude, to accompany him.

CHAPTER IV.

A BLOW FALLS ON THE RIGEL.

JIM HOWLAND was of a distinct type, a lean but well knit man of medium height but very broad of shoulder, with the chest and shoulders of a sailor man. There was a boyish eagerness and enthusiasm about him, especially when the day's work had to do with matters nautical. Just as some men are electrified by race horses or cars or golf or fishing, Jim Howland's passion was for boats, especially seagoing craft, though he loved them all, from a toy or antique model to the Leviathan or Wyoming.

He plunged now into the voyage proposed, trying to explain to the less technical Bengal the relative speed ratio he had worked out approximately for Rigel and Gunga.

"V over the root of L, for a constant to start with," he began, getting out his pencil and disfiguring the tablecloth. "V to equal the speed in knots, and L the length in feet, y'understand."

Gertrude rested her bare dimpled elbows on the table, dropped her square little chin on her tanned knuckles, and looked at Bengal, amused. She perceived that he did not understand at all; was a little bored, in fact, as the clear-as-mud technical explanation proceeded. Bengal's forte was distinctly not mathematical. In college he had barely managed to clear his coasts when the door slammed on this subject. As a designer, he had an eye for a boat. He could navigate by the old method which ignored azimuths of the sun. Playing safe on his run to Bermuda, he had taken a wide margin of easing, missed the island, then run down his latitude until he picked up Gibbs Hill light, after dark. Gertrude, trained by her father in a little swordfisher they had made into a yacht of sorts, was a far better navigator.

She stopped smiling presently on discovering that Bengal's attention had strayed. He had caught sight of Carillon, coming up the terrace with a buxom, overdressed, and much bejeweled lady of early middle-age, rather pretty; what a Scotsman would have described as "sonsy." Gertrude frowned. She regarded Carillon askance, with a mixture of dislike and fascination. She knew the stories about her. Carillon might or might not be a thief, but she was unquestionably a siren and pearl diver, as Jim Howland said, akin to the gold digger of drama. She engaged herself to marry men, to plunder them, and gave nothing in return, unless her fiancé lied nobly.

Gertrude did not want Bengal to fall in love with Carillon, and she was beginning to fear that he had already suffered such a tumble. Bengal was the sort Gertrude approved, a little ironic perhaps, but keen of wit. He possessed a repartee that boomed out deliberately but hit the mark, like a well directed sixteen inch shell. His massive physical strength would have been apparent if he had been sitting in a steam bath with only his head visible. The bony structure of his face showed it. There was not an ounce of fat on him, his five feet eleven being mostly heavy bone, with hands of muscle slapped on in due proportion. His waist was small and flat. Plainly he would never be fat and bald at any age, because he ate and drank so sparingly and lived in the open air. Gertrude liked his crow-black hair, blue-black like the wing of that bird, and his predatory beak, and the gashes in his cheeks. Blonde herself, his swarthyness appealed to her.

Carillon and her new acquaintance passed their table, where the cloth had been spread. "Hello, Gungas," said Carillon, her pale green eyes on Bengal. "We Rigels are having a swimming party this afternoon. Please come."

She presented her companion, a Mrs. Ransome, a widow, and husband hunting. Bengal imagined. Howland said it afterward, a bit of gossip, as yacht club scouts are apt to be. Bengal reflected that her rings alone might furnish some ex-Prince's ransom. Their propinquity to Carillon worried him, as if he had gone off and left the cat in the same room with the canary.

"Let's go to her party," Gertrude said, when the two women had passed on. "Swimming's the best they have to offer here."

"Hope the plump party parks her jewels with Gran before she gorges her body in the brine," Howland said, gloomily. "She'd be S. O. L. if she got a cramp in both hind legs and Carillon went to the rescue."

"Stow it, Dad," Gertrude said, abruptly.

"Well, Dodd knows the sad affliction. He asked me to refute it, but I gave him the lowdown for his best good. And ours. We don't want him to hook Gunga to buy a solitaire."

"No fear," said Bengal. "If ever I get engaged to Carillon the wedding will follow before the breeze has time to shift. Then, once aboard the lugger."

"Well, we don't want that, either," Gertrude said, positively. "Leaving Dad and me on the beach on the Galapagos, or whatever you call 'em. We mightn't have the price to get home."

"Less fear of that, even, lassie. I need you to navigate the junk. I might hunt for the Low Archipelago till all the planks did shrink. Anyhow, here's some sea turtle, so if the worst comes to the worst you'll know what you have to live on."

But the swimming party was not held that afternoon. At Bengal's suggestion, Howland and his daughter had taken up their quarters aboard, to get the swing of things before putting to sea in a couple of days. Going aboard Rigel at 4:30, they found Granville Boyd sitting in the deck house chair with a face like a white squall.

"Well, the blow has fallen," he said, grimly. "Looks as if the voyage was off, or indefinitely postponed. That Ransome woman has lost the bulk of her jewels, and she's squalling like a stuck pig."

The particulars were painful. Carillon, cruising about the hotel, had come on Mrs. Ransome giving some directions to her maid, a slant-eyed French girl named Irma. As ill luck turned the card, Irma had the year previous been Carillon's maid, leaving her employ in all friendliness because of an opportunity to take service with Mrs. Ransome, about to sail for France. Irma desired to revisit her beloved Paris. Carillon had not protested. Perhaps she felt that Irma might be a latent source of danger.

Pausing now in answer to Irma's respectful greeting, Carillon had got into conversation with Mrs. Ransome, who was lonely and eagerly welcomed an acquaintance. They spent the morning together, buying a few things in the shops, dozing and scarfing. Carillon lunched with her new pickup, going later with her to her rooms. She had asked Mrs. Ransome aboard for swimming and tea. Carillon going off to Rigel to give some order to the steward, send him ashore for ice, and cakes, and things.

Shortly after her came the hotel detective, with grave charges. Mrs. Ransome's jewel case, which, of course, she should have put in the safe, had been stolen, with contents estimated to the value of two hundred and fifty thousand. The detectives had been informed that Miss Boyd was known to be afflicted with a most lamentable form of monomania. Such mental defects were known to occur in the best families, like other accidents. If Miss Boyd would hand over the jewels the affair would be hushed up (maybe).

Carillon, Granville told them, was locked in her cabin, in a state of pale and silent fury. He had warned her that the next lapse would be her last, that he would commit her to an institution for such irresponsibles. She denied any knowledge of what had happened to the jewels. A search had discovered nothing of them. Granville Boyd did not know what to think. He had given his sister 24 hours in which to restore the jewels, at the end of which time he intended to sail for New York, if permitted by the Bermuda police, who as yet had not been called on the case.

"Would you really commit her to an institution for irresponsibles?"

Bengal listened to Boyd's bitter recital with the set, expressionless face that one of his ancestors might have worn on returning from a voyage to learn that the girl he loved had been carried off by Indians. For some reason Boyd seemed addressing this new acquaintance, rather than Howland, who was an old friend. Bengal had some quality that inspired confidence and dissolved reserve so that the fact of his being a comparative stranger was negligible, as it might have been in the case of a distinguished surgeon or lawyer called in consultation. Now, when Boyd had finished speaking, he asked:

"Would you really commit her to an institution for irresponsibles?"

"Yes, I would, if only for her own sake, and while I've still got jurisdiction over her. Before she gets landed in something worse. Mind you, Dodd, there's no element of family or personal pride in the rotten business. Not even envenom. Carillon came by this moral obliquity fairly. It's an inheritance, a family curse."

"Better'n Cake" He Claims

According to Mrs. McCoy, 4734 Newcomb Place, her 5-year-old son, shown above, claims that "Bond Bread is better'n cake."

Mrs. McCoy adds: "Bond Bread heads the list of my daily grocery order because it is the most wholesome of breads."

Just 8 years ago, 2315 St. Louis housewives brought samples of their home-baked bread to the Y. W. C. A. to show us the kind of bread they wanted for themselves and their children. Being frankly copied from the best of these 2315 loaves, Bond Bread quickly became St. Louis's most popular bread.

Why is it that after 8 years of unparalleled popularity, Bond Bread now enjoys an even greater demand than ever before in its history? This thorough baking is what makes it so firm and close-textured, as well as so flavorful.

Every day more and more housewives realize it pays to discriminate in bread. They have tried them all and have convinced themselves that a home-like, beautiful bread, like Bond, is the greatest bargain a woman can buy.

Prevent skin starvation

The Cause of Wrinkles, Crow's Feet, Flabby Tissues and Age Signs!

Now you need no longer worry about your skin growing coarse and lined. For the cause of these distressing flaws has been found—and not only that but a way has been discovered to prevent them.

Wrinkles, crow's feet, flabby tissues and age signs, say the scientists, are directly due to a starved condition of the skin—to skin malnutrition. The deep skin cells do not receive the food they need to keep soft and supple. They become harsh, dry and shrunken—old before their time. But certain tonic ingredients, it has been found, have a stimulating effect on the skin—renewing skin youth.

When these tonic ingredients are combined with a fine smooth cream they cause the starved harsh skin to absorb nourishment from the cream—to grow young and supple again.

Start using this wonderful tonic cream today. Ask for Golden Peacock Tonic Tissue Cream—the splendid new food for starved skins. Unless it makes your skin soft and supple in ten days your money will be refunded. At all

4 out of 5 start too late

Among the people you see today, four out of five past forty (and many younger) are victims of Pyorrhea—simply because they started too late to protect teeth and gums.

Pyorrhea starts with tender, bleeding gums. Unchecked, it undermines youth and health. Too often it results in loss of teeth, neuritis, ulcers, rheumatism or other serious diseases.

But have no fear. If you start in time, you can prevent or check the vicious inroads of Pyorrhea. If your gums are soft or bleeding, see your dentist at once for examination. And start now using Forhan's for the gums.

Used regularly and in time, Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea or checks it. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., a recognized specialist for years in Pyorrhea.

Forhan's firms the gums, keeps them healthy. It protects teeth and keeps them white. It guards your youth and health.

Don't gamble with your health! See your dentist twice a year. And start the Forhan morning-and-night habit now.

Teach your children to use it, too, as health-insurance. Play safe. Get a tube
